HAUPTMANN HOPES TO ADDRESS PARDON BOARD

Hauptmann May Make Personal Plea For Pardon

Hopes To Address State Pardon Board From His Death Cell

DISAPPOINTED AT RULING OF COURT

Still Declares "Conscience Is Free" Despite Doom Confronting Him

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann today was preparing to voice the final plea for his life in his own gutteral accents.

He was not surprised nor greatly disappointed when the United States supreme court refused to review his conviction for the murder of Baby Lindbergh.

He had seen his lawyers fail in the state courts. He was not to be upset when they fared no better before the highest tribunal in the land.

To Plead Own Case

Now he is preparing to act as his own lawyer before the court of pardons in what promises to be one of the strangest scenes ever enacted in a criminal case in this state.

The thrice-doomed carpenter will, according to the most reliable information, address the august court of pardons in a room of the state prison, where he now awaits death in the electric chair, if present plans of those in authority carry through.

Members of the court of pardons are Governor Harold G. Hoffman, State Chancellor Luther A. Campbell and six judges of the state court of errors and appeals. They wield the power of pardon, parole or commutation.

Unique Procedure

Never before in the history of the state has a court of pardons gone into the state prison to hear the plea of a condemned man. But

President's Train Makes Brief Stop Here Early Today

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt early this morning went through New Castle, a second time since he has been in office.

The crack Baltimore & Ohio locomotive No. 5233 and six-passenger train, bearing the nation's executive, puffed its way into the yards of the B. & O. at New Castle junction at 2:06 a. m. While another engine, No. 5094, was being attached to the presidential special, a corps of men was busily engaged checking the train. Upon the arrival of the special, several secret service men hopped off and were on guard. At 2:13 o'clock, the wheels of the engine commenced to turn and the United States chief executive was on his way to Washington, D. C. An air of quiet replaced the typical train yard noises during the change.

There was no sign of life aboard the passenger train, where the president was asleep. A secret service man told a News man that the president had retired several hours before the train stopped here. At the head of the train bearing President Roosevelt one could see an attractive bouquet of roses which the president probably received at South Bend. In the next coach a group

GOV. HOFFMAN IS WITHOUT NEW EVIDENCE

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 10—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, whose recent visit to the death cell of Bruno Richard Hauptmann raised a furore in newspaper and political circles, today said he had no new evidence in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case.

Hoffman's declaration came coincidentally with the revelation in a copyrighted dispatch by Kenneth T. Downs, Intenational News Service reporter, that the so-called private investigation of Ellis H. Parker, Burlington county detective, also was barren of new evidence.

At the governor's press conference this morning, a reporter advanced the suggestion the governor should give any evidence he might have to the trial court rather than to the court of pardons, Hauptmann's next hope of averting death in the electric chair.

"I have no such evidence," the governor said.

Returns To Capital With Re-election Campaign Partially Launched

SPEECHES OUTLINE BASIS OF CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Roosevelt returned to the capital today with the framework of his campaign for re-election already sketched in broad outlines.

His speeches in Atlanta, Chicago and elsewhere during his weeks of absence left no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt proposes to fight it out on the record, experiments and all.

The real beginning of the Democratic campaign, however, is chalked down for Jan. 8. On that date, the full Democratic national committee will be assembled in Washington to choose a convention site and make other arrangements for the campaign. There will be a big Jackson Day dinner at which Mr. Roosevelt will be the chief speaker. Simul-

Claim Italy's War Success Is Negligible

(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 10—The mountains and deserts of Abyssinia and the warriors of Haile Selassie make it unnecessary for the emperor to concede half his territory to Italy, government spokesmen asserted today.

"Italian successes after two months of warfare remain negligible," it was argued, "and it is unreasonable to expect Abyssinia to yield an inch of territory."

For this season, the authorities said, the emperor will refuse to cede any areas to Italy under the Franco-British peace plan, but will continue fighting.

Hoare-Laval Plan For Peace Is Under Fire

Nearly Torpedoed By Sudden Moves Of British Government

BALDWIN'S REMARKS UPSET SCHEDULE

Large Portion Of British Government Opposed To Proposed Peace Plan

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Hoare-Laval plan for peace in East Africa, making large concessions to Italy, was nearly torpedoed by the British government today in a series of sudden moves.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, addressing the House of Commons late in the afternoon shortly after a crucial special session of the cabinet, announced that no suggested basis for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute had yet been submitted to either Italy or Ethiopia.

"I am not at all sure," Baldwin told a tense house, "that finality has yet been reached."

Crisis Returns.

Baldwin's sensational remarks indicated the entire crisis had again been thrown back to a point comparable to its most serious and war-threatening stages.

His statement confirmed the conviction which grew suddenly and rapidly all morning that a large portion of the British government was strongly opposed to the peace plan approved over the week-end by Foreign Secretary Samuel Hoare in a Paris conversation with Premier Pierre Laval.

The plan reportedly would call for the cession of about 150,000 square miles of territory by Ethiopia to Italy.

Led by youthful, fiery, pro-League of Nations Anthony Eden, many high members of the cabinet immediately charged Sir Samuel had exceeded his authority in approving a plan which "betrayed" Ethiopia and the league.

Peace Talks Continue.

As a result of today's cabinet session, it was learned authoritatively, Anglo-French peace talks will continue regarding "points of detail" of the peace plan, and the plan will not be submitted immediately to Italy, the league and Ethiopia.

Replying to a private notice question by Major Clement Attlee, heading the Laborite opposition, Baldwin explained the nature of the peace proposals as follows:

"The committee of co-ordination at Geneva had approved negotiations by the French and British gov-

Clamp Lid Down After Slaying Of Crime Crusader

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 10.—The lid which Walter W. Liggett, veteran newspaper publisher and sensational vice crusader, vainly endeavored to clamp down on Minneapolis vice dens while he lived, dropped with a resounding clang today as the result of his assassination.

Gambling houses, bootleg and all-night liquor dispensaries and disorderly houses were locked and dark as word spread through the underworld that "the heat is on".

Liggett, arch foe of Gov. Floyd B. Olson and his farmer-labor state administration, was shot down in the rear of his home yesterday evening as he stepped from his auto with his arms full of groceries. He was returning from a shopping trip with his wife and 10-year-old daughter, Marda.

Sixty Merchants Aid State Grange Sales

As the several thousand Grangers and their friends arrived in New Castle today they found a warm welcome awaiting them from business men, professional men and citizens generally.

Merchants have their stores decorated for the grange convention, and in an effort to aid them in their Christmas shopping a two-day Grange Sale has been arranged with over 60 merchants co-operating in the event.

The sale is not a catch penny bargain hunt, but a legitimate sale in which the merchants offer legitimate values to a group of people with discriminating tastes. The sale appeals particularly to the women attending the convention. Women of the rural regions are alert shoppers and the grange sale Wednesday and Thursday is designed to give the ladies of the agricultural districts something to remember New Castle by.

Each of the stores co-operating in the sale is so identified by a card or banner and grangers patronizing these shops can be sure that not only have those merchants co-operated in presenting real values but the personnel of the store is there to serve the grangers in anyway possible.

Grangers Hear State Master's Address In Opening Session Here

Summing up the work of the Pennsylvania State Grange during the past year, its hopes for the future and the objectives towards which it is aiming, State Master J. Audley Boak today addressed the 63rd annual convention of the grange now in session in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. His address follows:

Officers and Members of the Pennsylvania State Grange:

It is a pleasure to address you from a platform in our own county. For many years we have hoped for the pleasure of having the State Grange meet in New Castle. Now that pleasure is ours.

Lawrence County is not an old Grange county. Our oldest Grange, No. 1431, is only twenty-five years old while our Pomona is No. 65. Our Granges, however, are rather sturdy youths.

Lawrence County is rather small, having an area of only 360 square miles, and with twelve Granges our territory is pretty well covered. We do not need more Granges, but more members. Lawrence County is noted for its fertile and well tilled farms; its mining and manufacturing industries; its oil and gas wells; coal mines; lime quarries; and beautiful scenery.

The past Grange year has been a busy one, all too short, and our ability too limited to accomplish the things we had hoped for. It is simply impossible to take advantage of all the many opportunities that present themselves. Our work has taken us into all sections of our great

Sidelights On State Grange Convention

The lobby of the Castleton Hotel was like a college reunion Monday evening. Grangers from every part of the state milled around meeting old friends, meeting new ones and renewing friendships that are new every year.

One of the early arrivals was John A. McSparren, Lancaster County Secretary of Agriculture and former state master of the grange. He was a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket in 1922 and was in the Republican cabinet of Governor Gifford Pinchot in 1931.

Another former state official and former state grange master was Philip Dewey of Tioga county, formerly secretary of Internal Affairs and before that manager of the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund. He's been a granger for years.

And still another former state official was Frank P. Willits of Chester county, former secretary of agriculture. He has been identified with the agriculturalists of the state for so long that his name is synonymous with farming development. He is treasurer of the state Grange.

Will Hays, not the movie czar, checked in later in the evening. Mr. Hays is a former newspaper man.

Interference by Patsy Audino, city fireman, who rushed into the Zuk home when an alarm was given by Mrs. Paul Polkavich, who resides with the Zuks, probably saved Mrs. Zuk's life. Audino wrenched the knife from the man's hand after Zuk had slashed his wife, who was lying on the floor.

Great Host Of State Grangers Gathers In City

Outline Of Program And Work Accomplished Given By Master

ASKS THAT FARMER BE GIVEN CHANCE

Formal Opening Of Convention Is In Sixth Degree—Sessions For Three Days

What appears to be the most significant convention of the Pennsylvania State Grange opened this morning in the Cathedral, when State Master J. Audley Boak formally opened the 63rd annual convention. Attending the opening session, which was in the ritual of the sixth degree were about 1000 grangers. All of the opening session was behind closed doors.

At 11:20 o'clock, State Master Boak delivered his annual address to the convention and through it ran a thread of opposition to the regimentation of agriculture and industry, which seems to be the forerunner of some resolutions that will express the criticism of the grangers to such organizations as the AAA, the Milk Control Board, and the reckless expenditure of government moneys for work relief.

Give Farmer A Chance

Boak asked that the farmer be given a chance to work out his own destinies instead of letting the "brain trust" do it. The complete text of his address will be found in other columns of today's News.

State Master Boak was given an ovation when he finished. In his address he had touched upon the subjects close to the hearts and interests of the grangers and there is good reason to believe that some forthright action will be urged by resolution before the convention closes.

Grangers Delighted

The convention opened today in an auspicious manner. The grangers are delighted with the facilities of the Cathedral, the crowd is the largest attending a convention in the past five years and by noon tomorrow another 1500 are expected to arrive.

One thing has already been noticed by the grangers and that is the genuine air of welcome manifest by the citizens of the city. Boy Scouts have been meeting the

BLAST KILLS SIXTEEN MINERS

Alberta Has Mine Disaster

Terrific Gas Blast Occurs At 500 Foot Level In Coal Mine

FIFTEEN OF DEAD TAKEN FROM SHAFT

(International News Service)

COAL HURST, Alberta, Dec. 10.—Misery and sorrow enshrouded this little coal mining town today as 16 miners lay dead—fifteen of them in humble homes and one beneath tons of debris deep in a mine shaft—the result of a terrific gas blast at the 500-foot level of the Lethbridge Collieries mine.

Three miners were seriously injured. Eleven others escaped unscathed.

The bodies of the victims, taken from the shaft amid the weeping, wailing and praying of 200 men, women and children, were battered and scorched from fallen rock and searing gas flames.

The buried body of the sixteenth victim was located and to be extricated today.

Working Slack Time

The mine has been working on "slack time," else 200 men would have been underground at the time of the blast.

The blast, believed to have been caused when sparks from a telephone wire ignited gas, occurred shortly after the night shift went to work late yesterday.

Force of the explosion was felt on the surface. A few moments later an injured miner painfully crawled to a telephone and gave the alarm to the surface. Raised to the surface, he said he was working near the main driveway at the 600-foot level when he was suddenly hurled from his feet and burned by flaming gas.

Rescue crews descended at once and brought the dead and injured to the surface.

It was the first major disaster in the 50-year history of the field.

Earlier in the day 56 miners escaped up an air shaft of the Kent Coal mine, four miles east of Edmonton, when flames razed the hoist house at the pitchead, putting elevators out of commission. The men clambered up 175 feet of zigzagging ladders and narrow steps through the mine workings to the surface. None were injured.

He was city editor, financial editor and managing editor of the Philadelphia Ledger and served about 30 years with the fourth estate. He is now in the insurance business and lives in Cumberland County.

One of the busiest men of the convention is John H. Light, of Harrisburg, the secretary of the state grange. He is on the job about twenty-four hours per day during the convention time and knows everybody, it seems. He never seems to hurry but gets through a prodigious amount of work.

About nine thirty the old time choir came over from the First Presbyterian church and put on an impromptu concert in the lobby of the Castleton. Pompadours, bustles and sideburns were predominant and with them a lot of good music.

Assemblyman James B. Kelso, of North Beaver Township was around the lobby most of the evening and met a number of men he served with in the House. He is a granger and was interested in farm legislation last session.

The reception committee was on the job and met the grangers as they checked in. And in the ballroom the room reservation committee was busy all evening checking delegates into their lodgings.

There is going to be a lot of resolutions put through at this convention it seems apparent. And from the tone of the talk some of them may have some teeth in them.

The convention site for the next convention will not be chosen at this convention. That will be duty of the executive committee next summer.

J. Audley Boak, state grange master and a Lawrence Countian was having the time of his life. He has wanted to bring the convention to New Castle for some years and now has it here with himself as the head of the organization.

The grange is not a small organization. There are about 80,000 gathered under its banner and any time 30,000 farmers and their wives start something there is bound to be action. You may remember what happened to the revision of the state constitution when they stepped out against it.

The women are just as important as the men in this convention. That is natural for a farmer's wife does as large a day's work as her husband. And this is the time of year when they propose to enjoy themselves.

by ship classifications are discussed.

The delegates, rolling up to Clarence House through the obscure Westminster street where it sits, appeared as gloomy as that smoke-blackened building itself.

Admiral Osami Nagano's statement last night rejecting the American proposal for an all-round reduction of as much as 20 per cent was interpreted as amounting to a flat refusal to discuss any question until Japan is assured absolute equality.

If Japan refuses to budge from this stand, the conference may speedily be torpedoed—some pessimists talked of a break-up within a week—but the outlook was for a long-drawn-out task.

The Japanese, because of this attitude, will support the proposal for a discussion of quantitative limitation first, and if the debate ever reaches that point, another wide divergence will come over definitions of defensive and offensive vessels. Japan wants abolition of big battleships and cruisers and aircraft carriers as "offensive," but retention of submarines, which Britain regards as likewise offensive.

Demands Of Powers

London, Dec. 10.—With Japan's demand for unqualified parity as the chief stumbling block, here are the demands of the five powers at the London naval conference as set forth by their delegations:

United States—All-round reduction up to 20 per cent; in no cases any increases; retention of treaty ratios; fortification of Pacific islands if ratios abolished; big battleships; "equality of security."

Great Britain—Prolongation of Washington and London treaties "with modifications necessary on account of altered international circumstances;" 20 more cruisers; smaller capital ships and guns; abolition of submarines.

Japan—Actual parity on total tonnage basis, to be established before dicsussion of limitations by classifications or "equality of security."

France—Superiority over Germany and Italy; limitation in the light of "interdependence" of navies and land and air armaments.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WASHINGTON

taneously there will be held dozens of other Jackson Day dinners thruout the country, listening to their own oratory and to the president. Present plans call for an extensive radio hook-up, linking these Democratic love-feasts together in one great evening of Democratic congratulation and rejoicing.

Opposition Not Idle.

But the opposition is not going to be idle, either. According to present plans, the American Liberty League, arch foe of the administration, is going to follow the celebration of Jackson Day with a demonstration of entirely different character.

The league is going to have a dinner of its own, with all the fanfare that it is possible to throw around an event patronized by such distinguished names. The league is now negotiating with the broadcasting companies for time on the air, and the chief speaker, if plans work out, will be no less a personage than Alfred E. Smith, one of the charter members of the league. It is also hoped to prevail upon John W. Davis, another charter member, to speak. The league wants to blanket the country with speeches that will take the edge off the Democratic rejoicing on Jackson Day. The league wants to put on its show within a week after the Democratic celebration, a reply to Mr. Roosevelt.

Smith and Davis are two of the most prominent Democratic names associated with the Liberty league. Both are former Democratic nominees for the presidency. Both are in the oppositionist ranks to the administration, Smith through his writings, Davis through his legal services to clients who are attacking the AAA and other administration policies.

Plans for the league dinner are being laid with utmost secrecy. Its officers, upon being questioned today, at first denied any intentions of staging a rival show to the Jackson Day celebration. Later, they offered to discuss the proposition "off the record", and finally admitted that plans were being made.

It should make January an interesting political month—featuring speeches by such distinguished Democrats as Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis.

HAUPTMANN MAY MAKE PERSONAL PLEA FOR PARDON

neither had a governor ever gone into the state prison to interview a doomed inmate until Governor Hoffman paid his secret visit to Hauptmann in the death house on the night of last October 17.

And it was Hoffman, who said that every member of the court of pardons should personally hear Hauptmann's story. The youthful governor late yesterday admitted to reporters that the court of pardons may hear Hauptmann's story in the prison rather than in the state house.

Prison officials frankly admitted Hauptmann had no confidence in the appeal to the United States supreme court so, in his usual calculating manner, he several weeks ago foresaw the possibility of appearing in person before the court of pardons and began to prepare himself for the occasion. It was several weeks ago he began a careful study of the records of his trial in his death house cell, as disclosed exclusively by International News Service at the time.

Conscience Is Clear

Hauptmann not only showed his lack of perturbation at the supreme court's action, but demonstrated his rhetoric as well when informed of the unfavorable decision. With a shrug of his shoulders, he said:

"Well, in a way, I'm glad the legal part of it is over. Of course I am disappointed because if I have a new trial it would bring out new evidence. But I still have more faith than before.

"My conscience is clear and I have no fear. The truth will come out, maybe tomorrow, maybe next day, maybe in five years, but it will come out and prove my innocence. I only wish the people of the United States would know me as I am and not as I have been made out."

Hauptmann's loyal wife, Anna, was expected as a visitor at the prison today.

Meantime there were conferences in a dozen different places as the famous case moved on to its denouement.

May Ask New Trial

The defense lawyers were trying to decide whether they have gathered sufficient evidence to ask for a new trial. Egbert Rosecrans said they were considering asking for a new trial on the basis of some mysterious new evidence uncovered by C. Lloyd Fisher, chief of defense, supposedly pointing the finger of guilt in the crime at "others."

If the new trial plea is refused, a petition will be submitted asking the consideration of the court of pardons. It was intimated in quarters close to the defense that the new evidence might be used to get the case into a federal court and thus escape the chance of a refusal by Justice Trenchard, who presided throughout the trial.

Atttorney General David T. Wilentz was preparing to ask Justice Trenchard for an early date of execution when Hauptmann is brought up for re-sentencing next week.

While the attorneys were drawing up their lines for their last fight, grizzled old Ellis Parker, the famed detective of Mount Holly, N. J., reiterated his belief that Hauptmann is innocent and that he may prove him so before he has finished his investigation.

Zuk was cut about the head and face. The son sustained a severe cut about the head. All three are in a serious condition. Mr. Zuk's condition is the most serious.

From the cellar the man rushed upstairs and attacked his wife. The son arose from bed and went to his mother's rescue. While wrestling with his father, the youth was cut about the head and then rushed out into the street to get help. Mrs. Zuk was unconscious. After Audino wrenched the razor from the assailant's hands Zuk chased Audino outside and attacked him with a prop used to hold up a clothesline.

In leaping over a fence Audino sustained a painful injury to his right hand. Police, who replied to a telephone call, seized Zuk on the rear porch of his home. They rushed him to the hospital in a police car. Ambulances hurried the man's wife and son to the same institution.

gray-eyed rural detective told International News Service.

"I talked the case over with Governor Hoffman just as I'm talking it over with you. I told him I think Bruno Richard Hauptmann is innocent because the state didn't show one damned thing to prove he was guilty.

"All I gave Governor Hoffman was a logical, intelligent, analysis of the case and the testimony. It was based entirely on records in the case and on that testimony."

HOARE-LAVAL PLAN FOR PEACE IS UNDER FIRE

ernments for settlement of the dispute. Such a basis must be submitted for the views of the parties.

"Sir Samuel Hoare and Premier Laval discussed the substance of the proposals and the procedure.

"No suggested basis has at present been submitted either to Italy or Ethiopia, and it clearly would be premature to make a statement on the subject."

Today, however, there developed a sudden opposition to the plan with the implied charge that Ethiopia and the league were being "sold out" to Italy. A surprise special session of the cabinet was called at noon, only Shortly after Eden had conferred with Baldwin.

It was believed Eden had won his point with Baldwin in opposing the proposed peace.

The reassertion by Baldwin at this time of the fact Britain would demand approval by all three parties was held to be significant, and was viewed as having left the grave problem just about where it was several weeks ago. Both Geneva and Addis Ababa official sources have indicated opposition to the proposed formula.

taken into custody shortly after the slaying, was freed early today after three hours of questioning.

Mrs. Liggett, police declared, has positively identified Cann as one of her husband's assailants.

The assassination became a political issue today as rumors spread that political opponents of Gov. Olson, principal target of Liggett's vitriolic pen, would seek a legislative investigation of the ramification of Minneapolis underworld activities.

Wife and Daughter Witnesses.

There were no witnesses to Liggett's assassination besides Mrs. Liggett and their daughter.

His wife told police the slayer's car was parked in the alley in the rear of their home, apparently awaiting their return from the shopping trip.

As her husband stepped from the auto, his arms full of packages, three shots rang out in quick succession and Liggett fell, the groceries spewing over the ground.

Mrs. Liggett leaped from the auto and rushed to the side of her dying husband.

Little Marda was stunned for a moment , the screamed:

"Don't die, daddy, don't die!"

Slayer Races Away.

The slayer's car raced down the alley, turning the corner with a screech of the tires, and disappeared.

In addition to his newspaper and magazine work, Liggett had written a number of books, including "The Rise of Herbert Hoover" and "Pioneers of Justice".

In 1929 he was called as a witness before the District of Columbia grand jury to substantiate charges that thousands of bootleggers operated in the district, that the annual liquor bill of the district was $20,000,000 and that Capitol Hill was the wettest spot in the district.

His newspaper career includes service on a number of New York newspapers.

PRESIDENT'S TRAIN MAKES BRIEF STOP HERE EARLY TODAY

of newspapermen were enjoying a game of cards. The special was enroute from South Bend, Ind., where President Roosevelt spoke at Notre Dame, to Washington.

Because of the fact that railroad men did not divulge the movement of the special, only several B. & O. police, brakemen, officials and a New Castle News man were on hand to greet the special. The change in engine and checking of the passenger train was efficiently done under the supervision of J. L. Thoman, terminal trainmaster of the B. & O.

The trouble with private charity is that there aren't enough sad newspaper stories to keep it worked up.

MUSIC CLUB CONCERT PLEASES LARGE CROWD

One of the earliest of the month's Yule programs was that given last evening by the Music club, in the First Christian church, which was open to the public.

The Music club chorus directed by Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, with Mrs. Kathryn Nessle Allen, accompanist, sang effectively three groups of carols of many lands. Their singing made it clear from the start that they were a well-trained organization. The quality of tone was very pleasing and well blended, and the response to the conductor's direction was immediate and thorough.

The organ soloist was Mary Virginia Patterson, whose reputation is well established. Mrs. Patterson played three groups of Christmas numbers, which included "The Virgin's Slumber Song" by Garth Edmundson, New Castle composer.

Soloists heard with the chorus were Miss Helen Allen, Miss Mary R. Clarke and Mrs. Robert E. Fleming, sopranos, and Miss Hazel Campbell and Mrs. Clifford Propst, contraltos. Piano, organ and violin accompaniment was used for some of the numbers, Dr. H. Eckles, being the assisting violinist.

WASHINGTON STUDENTS PRESENT PROGRAM

In song, and story, pictures of Christmas in other lands was portrayed Monday evening, by a large group of George Washington Junior High students in the East lodge room of the Cathedral, for the pleasure of New Castle chapter 105 O. E. S. and several guests.

The students were under the supervision of Miss Betty Glover and Miss Iva Mayberry upon which much credit reflects for the delightful presentation. There were nearly 70 young people in the performance, 32 comprising the chorus which was in vestments which lent a solemnity to the occasion.

The stage was centered with a brilliantly lighted Christmas tree, surmounted with a big white star towards which the recitalists pointed when relating the various customs and traditions of the many countries represented.

Mrs. Idylline Wimer and Mrs. Gertrude Fink planned the program which had in conclusion, a delightful surprise in the form of Santa Claus (Mrs. Fern Simons), who distributed brightly colored, cellophane wrapped, pop corn balls and peppermint candy to everybody present.

Previous to the evening's entertainment the customary lodge session was held with Mrs. Grace W. Crawford, worthy matron in charge.

SISTERHOOD MEMBERS ENTERTAINED MONDAY

Mrs. S. A. Ginsberg, Mrs. A. Katz, Mrs. P. Alpern and Mrs. David Frank were charming hostesses Monday evening to members of the Tifereth Israel Sisterhood, when they met at the synagogue for their usual business and social event. January 26 was selected as the date for their second annual dinner party to be given by the Sisterhood, during the transaction of routine matters.

Mrs. Jacob Levine gave a Chanukah reading that was greatly enjoyed, and caused much merriment. A song by Pearl Shear and Estelle Waldman added to the entertainment. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Philip Levine and Mrs. David Frank, which pleased the assemblage. A beautiful Zionist flag was presented to the organization by Mrs. Harry Waldman at the conclusion of the program.

Those who will preside as hostesses include Mesdames L. Zieve, H. Waldman, M. Lerner, J. Cobb and M. Greenberg.

DR. R. F. GALBREATH ADDRESSES QUOTA

"Around the world the youth movement is losing ground," was the keynote of the sympathetic discussion of that subject Monday evening, at the dinner-meeting of the Quotarians in the Elks club, by Dr. R. F. Galbreath, president of Westminster College.

"Young people dream dreams of a better world, arrange splendid programs, and make a fine start to carry out those progrems, but lack the experience and will to complete them," further stated the speaker. "They need older and wiser heads to help them follow through. The idealism of youth must be encouraged and safe-guarded from selfish and unwise leadership of subversive groups anxious to exploit them." Dr. Galbreath's remarks were concluded by an expression of confidence in our youth of America.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Claire Brown who is ill, Miss Neva Moore, vice president, presided over the business session, at which final plans were made for the card party which will be held Friday evening, December 13, in the Nurses' Home of the Jameson Memorial hospital. This event will take the place of the usual dinner-meeting next Monday evening.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON CAPTIVATES AUDIENCE

Wafted on a "magic carpet" which in one story was really a 'flying aeroplane" taking listeners to Persia, Babylon and other far-off countries, an audience of several hundred people almost completely filling the auditorium of the senior high school, heard Richard Halliburton, globe trotter and author, in tales of adventure which surpass repetition, except by the lecturer himself.

Speaking under the auspices of the Woman's club, Halliburton took his audience from "the little town of New Castle" over the Alps on a three-ton elephant, via. St. Bernard's Pass, and deep into Italy amid the plaudits of astonished natives who hadn't seen the like since the days of Hannibal.

In Persia he and his traveling companion sought the favor of the king and queen, to say nothing of the beautiful queen and 300-pound princesses, who flew with them over fairy-like country in the "flying carpet".

In another Halliburton adventure the travelers met a prince in Bagdad and with him were carried over Babylon, the greatest city of antiquity, the purported spot of the Garden of Eden, and then before coming down to commonplace earth again were taken through a series of hair-raising loop-the-loops, the plane and passengers finally landing—right side up—over the ancient school where the prince was a student.

These tales form but a part of Halliburton's latest book on adventure, "Seven League Boots", which was his subject. As a speaker Richard Halliburton has national fame, being acknowledged as one of the most captivating lecturers of the day. He has a striking personality, and this, coupled with vivid word pictures of firsthand impressions gathered from travels all over the world, provided a thrilling afternoon's entertainment yesterday, which will be difficult to duplicate.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Alvah Shoemaker, chairman of the program committee.

CHRISTMAS PARTY IN PAISLEY HOME

Among the delightful social events on Monday's calendar, was the Yule party for members of the S. E. B. class of the First Methodist church, which was held in the Park avenue residence of Mrs. Carl Paisley last evening. Associated in entertaining with Mrs. Paisley were Mrs. B. K. Thacker, Mrs. W. C. Mechem, and Mrs. Ida Hamilton.

Miss Mary Alice White was in the chair as vice president for the brief business session, during which the class made plans for packing holiday baskets for needy families. Miss Jane Edmunds was appointed chairman of this committee and she will be assisted by Mrs. W. L. Beal, Mrs. J. B. Offutt, and Mrs. J. H. Anderson.

For the pleasing program presented afterwards, Mrs. Lura Elliott was in charge of devotionals, and read the Christmas lesson which was in the form of a beautiful story. Miss Alma Locke told in a most interesting manner, another version of the Christmas story. "In a Manger" was the title of a vocal number by Mrs. E. W. Greiner and there was assembly singing of carols by the 28 guests present.

When the program was concluded the role of Santa Claus was played by Mrs. E. B. Hawkins, who arrived wth jingling sleighbells and made everybody happy with the lovely gifts from his pack.

A colorful buffet lunch was served in the dining room by the several hostesses, decorations being carried out in holiday suggestions.

HOLIDAY LUNCHEON PLANNED BY O. F. T.

On a recent evening, O. F. T. Girls gathered in the home of Margaret Campbell, Temple avenue, where they were entertained informally. A brief business period was conducted. On this occasion, gifts will be exchanged.

Cards held attention during the ensuing hours, trophies being captured by Mrs. Howard Boughton and Mrs. Charles Erwin. As the concluding feature, the hostess served a dainty collation, with Mrs. Mabel Jenkins, assisting.

Stephenson Circle Program

Mrs. John A. Butler will be hostess to members of the Stephenson Circle of the First M. E. church on Thursday evening in her home at 318 Fairfield avenue.

The program which has been planned is a particularly interesting one. After devotions in charge of Mrs. W. L. Beal, Mrs. B. F. Kannenburg will lead the lesson study from the year book. A feature of the evening, in harmony with the Christmas season, will be the singing of traditional Yule-time carols under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Griner.

Mrs. Butler's group members, Mrs. John Black, Mrs. A. M. McCallen, Mrs. W. G. Ayers, Mrs. M. R. Hornung, Mrs. Ira Campbell and Mrs. W. H. Ross, will serve.

Welcome Grangers!

NEW CASTLE is always pleased to welcome visiting delegates who choose this city for their convention. The city is proud of the fact that here is one of the most ideal convention sites in the United States, the Scottish Rite Cathedral, but over and above the facilities New Castle always extends a genuine welcome to visitors.

It is particularly proud and happy to welcome the Pennsylvania State Grange as it assembles here for its three day annual convention. Here is an organization that has always stood for the better things in life, for the advancement of those things that make for happier home life, for higher achievements and for a well balanced civic existence.

Looking back over the years one can see the effect of the grange members upon the destinies of the state. Always they have stood steadfast against adding to the state's burden of taxes, against the increase of bonded indebtedness except where it was genuinely necessary.

Its most recent, and one of its outstanding victories was that against the rooting out of the present state constitution. The grange is for progress in government but its members were unwilling to tear down an historic document before they saw what would replace it. Had it not been for the Pennsylvania State Grange the constitution would undoubtedly have been ripped out and a new one in course of preparation, just what nobody knows.

The history of the grange is replete with service to the citizens of the state, with a devotion to genuine Anrericanism and with a zeal for the retention of the better things. All credit to such a splendid organization.

New Castle and Lawrence county has one other thing of which to be proud. The grangers of Pennsylvania, 80,000 strong have seen fit to drape the mantle of leadership about the shoulders of a native son, J. Audley Boak, of Slippery Rock township. This county knows him for his true worth; it is refreshing to know that his brother grangers have the same high opinion of him.

New Castle says welcome to the state grange and means it. Every citizen will devote himself in the next three days to the enjoyable task of making the stay of the grangers pleasant, to the end that when the gavel falls for adjournment they can truly say they have been welcome.

FEDERAL HOUSING VS. OVERBURDENED LOCAL TAXPAYERS

A slum clearance and model housing plan, which contemplates spending about $1,000,000,000 over a ten-year period, is said to be under consideration at Washington. It has been a great mystery as to how the government could provide model dwellings for the rents that the present "slum" dwellers can afford to pay. The New Dealers have a way of announcing plans which seem very glorious, but practical people wonder how they can be accomplished. It has recently appeared on certain developments, that the government housing agenies expect to provide low rents through the exemption of federal property from state and city taxation.

This plan has created a stir in certain communities where these housing plans have been started. The city of Atlanta, for instance, announced that if there were no taxes collected on the federal housing properties, then fire and water and police protection could not be supplied these homes, nor could the children attend school without paying tuition. The federal authorities sought to offset this move by offering to pay the city of Atlanta amounts equal to what the city would receive in taxes. But the comptroller general rules that this would be illegal, since the property owned by the federal government could not be taxed.

If the federal government compensates the local government for the taxes they lose on these housing properties the compensation thus paid would come out of the taxpayers all over the country. Is it right to tax the whole country to provide model homes for a group of citizens of Atlanta or other cities? Cities and towns are going to put up a tremendous kick, if large sections of property are taken off the tax lists. And if these government homes get tax exemption, it is about the same thing as handing a direct gift in cash to the occupants of these dwellings, because if the homes had to pay taxes, the rents would or should be higher. This model housing proposition is more complicated than some folks realize.—Salem, Mass., Evening News.

THE GAY YULETIDE

Since 1930, Christmas has imposed severe tests upon our courage. Regardless of our individual circumstances, we have not experienced spontaneous resurgences of a joyous spirit. Though the bells have rung and the lights have gleamed with their accustomed brightness, restraints have governed the degree to which the emotions characteristic of the season have welled in the human heart. Poverty and distress have been prevalent and despair had not yielded to hope.

Today, the eve of another Christmas, there still are those in great number upon whom the blight of sorrow falls. The ominous specter of poverty hovers on the threshold. The necessities of life are lacking. If events are permitted to follow their normal course, Christmas will be for them just what other days have been—days of privation and physical and mental suffering. They need the thoughtfulness and generosity of others to transform this season into a brief period of joyousness.

But for the great mass of the people, this Christmas will be happier and more hopeful than they have known for four years. There are many evidences of this change, but perhaps the most impressive is the improved spirit that is so apparent on every side.

When the increase in buying ranges from five to twenty per cent over that of last year times are unmistakably better.

But after all, a happy Christmas cannot possibly be a selfish Christmas. Unless our thoughtfulness and generosity extend beyond the bounds of our own homes and immediate circle of friends, we will have failed to catch the spirit of the day.

Alas, One Rich Man, Only.
Gasoline Is King.
Cardinal Hayes Speaks.
All The Ships She Wants.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ONLY ONE solitary American citizens had a net income above five million dollars last year, and they were fifty-nine-cent dollars. The man did not realize it, perhaps, but he will realize it later as inflation, which is now a FACT, becomes known to all.

WHO THE last, lonesome, remote, unfriended, mechanchoIy five-million-dollar-a-year man is, may not be told. The law forbids publishing income tax names, but the government tells you there is one and only one.

That "last rose" of depression's summer must look around him, sad-eyed, mourning over his old companions, withered and strewn.

WHAT IS important today may be nothing tomorrow; what was nothing yesterday, may become all important now. Once man was helpless, without his horse, camel, ox, yak, ass, mule, reindeer, dog sled, or tame elephant.

Now, in civilization, they mean little, while Lloyd George tells you "oil is the decisive factor in the Abyssinian campaign." Of all the great powers whose attitude is being canvassed, that of King Gasoline is most important. Without oil, Mussolini cannot win his war; with oil, victory is certain.

SEVEN HUNDRED years ago Marco Polo, telling about oil from the ground, in what are now the Baku oil fields, remarked that such oil was important, because it cured camels of the mange.

Little did he dream that the same oil, changed to exploding gasoline, would take the place of camels in desert transportation, and carry fighting men through the air, to drop destruction on camels and men below.

CARDINAL HAYES of New York, in a powerful address denouncing birth control, "voiced measured, deliberate and emphatic condemnation of those that had the effrontery" to misrepresent the Catholic position on that question, by suggesting that women, on relief, should be allowed to practice birth control to keep down population.

RESENTING the suggestion that the poor should temporarily give up having children, Cardinal Hayes offered this wise suggestion:

"The true lover of the poor, today, and the true social scientist, knows that the right approach to the whole problem is not to keep people from having children, but is so to reorder our economic and social structure as to make it possible for people to have children and to rear them in keeping with their needs."

JAPAN at the naval conference will consider nothing less than a battle fleet as big as any the United States may build; no 5-5-3 ratio.

NO AMERICAN should object to that, if Japan can afford it. It it not the size of a fleet that counts; unfortunate Spanish grandees in charge of the great armada could testify to that, after they met Elizabeth's small fleet and big sea-captains.

ALSO THERE is the fact that, if real war started, above the clouds and under water, every fighting nation would hide its battleship targets out of airplane sight, in safe harbors; many battleships, or few, would make no difference.

GEN. MITCHELL, head of our air force in the big war, described a plane now ready for flight, that can go from New York to Alaska and back, without stopping for fuel anywhere.

Give Japan a "happy landing" in Alaska, and planes, able to go to New York and back, dipping noisy souvenirs on Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, then returning to Alaska without stopping—what difference would it make how many floating battleship targets Japan might own? FIGHTING AIRSHIPS AND SUBMARINES, nothing else counts.

HOLLYWOOD'S CRY

This is Hollywood's one cry:
If you're eating apple pie,
If you cough to clear your throat,
If you stop to pay a note.
If there's dandruff on your coat,

If you smile or if you frown,
If your aunt comes into town,
"Get a picture!"
If you sit or if you stand
There's a camera man on hand
Who is serving this command;

If you order corned beef hash,
Soup is followed by a flash,
If to Edward Arnold you
Merely stop to say "How do"
Shouts the photographic crew:

When I die if I shall hear:
As his soul is drawing near;
"Not in Heaven," I shall reply
Back in Hollywood am I
Doomed to this eternal cry:

Welcome Grangers!

The United States has a mighty good Supreme Court!

A new Mae West story. What did Mae say to Clark Gable when she met him? "Hello Clark."

A Sheep Hill man who received six ash trays on his birthday won another one at a bridge party on Long avenue the other night. To they that have shall be given, eh, wot? There was a time when no one knew what an ash tray was on Sheep Hill.

Those Grangers are mighty good looking folks. This includes the men.

Will Rogers was nine thirty-seconds Indian, and proud of it. With an equal pride in the world-famous philosopher, 150 Indian students at Chilocco Indian Agricultural school in Kansas pooled their pennies and nickels and made up a contribution of $3.66 which they forwarded to the state committee of the Will Rogers memorial fund. Two contributions of a dollar each are credited simply to "Biff" and "bang" on the rolls of the New York committee. "Biff" and "Bang" are the sons of a Pennsylvanian living on R. F. D. No. 2 near Hollidaysburg. The boys asked their father that he take a dollar from each of their banks and give it to the Will Rogers memorial. Pleased with their request, he extracted a dollar from each bank and delivered the contribution in person to New York headquarters.

We read of a man who was charged with distributing anti-American literature and got out of it by claiming he could not read. Sometimes not knowing how to read helps some.

Modern lovers, whose demonstrations differ so largely from the old days, probably say the same things.

Being a popular leader is easy. You just pick out something the majority hates and then cuss it.

The word "unsettled" is used by the weather prophets to shirk responsibility for what follows, as frequently as the reporter adorns his tales with the word "alleged."

Dear Fred: A scientist has rigged up a device to expose the real thoughts of persons, and it would be a good thing to try it out on the defendant's lawyer in almost any big criminal case.

Where there's a will there is always a lawyer to break it.

J. P. D.

An Illinois man found a diamond in a chicken gizzard. And then the blamed chump raised the dickens with the butcher for selling him false weight.

The work of an election board is important and those who hold such jobs should be honest and capable. Some that get such jobs would not be at home with a pick and shovel.

The 40-hour week has added an additional cost of twenty millions a year to the United States postal service. And it has not increased the efficiency of the service one bit.

WHY SHE WOULDN'T TALK TO LLOYD GEORGE

When Lloyd George was a young country lawyer he was riding home one day, in a buggy, when he met a little girl from his town and picked her up for a ride home. She accepted silently, and all the way along, although the future statesman tried to engage her in conversation, he could not get her to say anything more than "yes" or "no".

Some days afterward the little girl's mother happened to meet Mr. Lloyd George and said to him smilingly: "Do you remember my little girl's riding with you the other day? Well, when she got home, she said: 'Mamma, I rode from school with Mr. Lloyd George, the lawyer, and he kept talking to me, and I didn't know whatever to do, for you know, Mr. Lloyd George, the lawyer, charges you for whenever you talk with him, and I hadn't any money!'"

Taxpayers of 30 years ago who had a grievance didn't know it perhaps, but they hadn't seen anything yet.

It doesn't naturally follow because a crook hasn't been in police court in ten years he has reformed. He may have been in jail.

Parents say a boy is more trouble, but you never hear them speak of getting a son "married off."

A law will be asked for at the special session of the Pennsylvania legislature to prohibit so many political parties that clutter up the ballots at all elections. It seems some birds want to run on as many parties as they can, perhaps not knowing what their politics are.

IT'S ONLY US

One night an old negro heard a flutter among his poultry.

"So I takes down my gun," he says, "an' creeps 'long in de dark. De doah of my chicken house is wide open an' I stick de revolvah inside an' says, 'Ef yo' don't come outen dat yo' low thiev'n niggah who's in dere, I jes blow yo' black head to pieces.'

"He don't let on, an' I shout out agen, 'Who dah?'

"Den I heah that crim'ny niggah say, 'It's only us chickens'."

It's our opinion that there are more people trying to think up new designs for men's neckties than for any other thing. Most every tie has a color or combination of colors of its own to confuse the bird who has a mania for gathering ties.

IF HE HAD KNOWN THE "EATS" WERE THERE

The commander of the gunboat Metacomet, Lieutenant-Commander James Jouett, U. S. N., was one day, while at Mobile during the Civil war, ordered by Admiral Farragut to attack the Confederate gunboat Selma, commanded by Captain J. Patrick Murphy, an intimate friend of Commander Jouett and formerly an officer in the United States navy. The fight was rather lively, but in the end the Metacomet got the better of it, and the captain of the Selma came to give up his sword.

Jouett, who always had a fine taste for good living, had managed before the action to obtain from Pensacola some unusually toothsome supplies, juicy steaks and canvasbacks, and so on. When the Selma's flag came down he sent some orders to his steward and awaited the arrival of his enemy. "Pat" came over the gangway with great and mournful dignity.

"Sir," he began, "I have come with feelings of deep regret to offer my——"

"Oh, come on, Pat," broke in Jouett, gathering him under his arm. "I don't want your sword. Come and get something to eat."

And with that he dragged the astonished Murphy into his cabin, where an enticing table had been spread. Pat looked at it gravely and hungrily. "Jim," said he, "if I had known you had that grub here I would have surrendered long ago."

Saving civilization is going to be easier when civilization is convinced it needs it.

Joy (it was called 'natural causes' at the inquest) caused Charles Abree, an English inventor, to drop dead as he received a munificent contract after years of work and privation. Fright, however, was responsible for the death of a New England lady, Mrs. Clinton Gurnee, when a deer leaped into her auto.

There are people who would be put in jail if the police knew what they spent their money for. Some would also be in the hoosegow if the police knew what they were thinking about.

Joe Turner, an Illinois fireman, is used to fast trips and hot fires but recently he slid down the pole so fast some matches in his shirt pocket were ignited and the blaze in his pocket became so hot he loosened his hold on the pole. He fell to the floor and sustained a fracture of both legs.

Only is the jaywalker guilty of violating the law when he is careless enough to step in front of a truck.

There are always questions much bigger than the comparitively few individuals concerned. The few individuals as a rule take advantage of such situations every time.

I know a man who says his good wife is like an umbrella because he can shut her up whenever he likes.

A parasite gets by unnoticed until he begins to stick his tenacles into our bank roll.

Your walls may be treated as either a background for your furnishings or as a decoration in themselves. But, for the proper effect, they must be either one thing or the other; never both or even a little of each.

At present, there is a tendency toward decorative wallpaper; for example, that known as "Scenic America"—very gay in color and depicting a medley of interesting American scenes, for use in a hall, living room or dining room containing American furniture. Then there is Chinese wallpaper covered with bright designs of growing trees, flowers, birds or foliage paper, as shown in the above sketch.

If you choose such wallpaper for your rooms, remember it is in itself sufficient decoration for your walls and does not require—and should not, indeed, have the added embellishment of pictures.

In selecting your wallpaper, keep these three thoughts in mind: It must be selected carefully to meet the special requirements of its surroundings. The design must not be too large for the room. The color should be delicate and pleasing.

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Philosophy that prices should be cut and pay raised is gaining. The most outspoken accepted authoirty has been Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, Washington.

This view evidently has been accepted, at least partially, by some of the industries. Steel, for example, decided not to raise prices.

Dr. Moulton gives the nub of the argument in these words:

"The necessity of progressive price reductions as a means of expanding purchasing power and markets appears to have been forgotten alike by business managers and economic statesmen. Yet the conclusion is inescapable that, insofar as the effort to stabilize prices is effective, we are blocking the broad distribution of income and thereby throttling economic progress. . . .

"The great danger confronting us that as we emerge from the depression and enter upon a new period of economic expansion prices will be pushed up in order to realize maximum immediate profits. Such a policy will not be conducive to a steady progress."

FASCISM FEAR AGAIN

With Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ices asserting that Big Business is trying to pull the United States into Fascism, liberals again begin calling attention to some conditions abroad.

Excerpts from three articles in the Manchester Guardian, England's noted liberal paper, are quoted. They concern Germany, Italy and Roumania.

IN GERMANY

This is an excerpt from a Manchester Guardian article from Germany

"That political prisoners are beaten until they faint with pain and loss of blood has become such a common-place in German jails that it is taken for granted. German Socialists and Communists who are doing 'underground' work—and they number many thousands—all know that to be treated in this fashion once or twice is among the risks of their dangerous calling. If they are arrested and get off with no more than this they consider themselves lucky.

"But to be beaten is also the fate of innumerable persons who have nothing to do with the 'underground' movement, but are suspected, often on the flimsiest evidence, of having some knowledge of it. To arrest men or women to wring from them information either about themselves or about others by torture has become the common practice of the 'Gestapo' (secret police).

"One of the latest methods used by the 'Gestapo' is to starve a prisoner until he gives information. A prisoner who has been starved for several days will then have food placed just out of his reach. . . ."

IN ITALY

Here are a few of many instructions issued by the Italian government to Italian newspapers:

"No more notice to be taken of the speeches of Hoare, Eden and Baldwin."

"All newspapers to give an important place to the publication of the list of Fascist improvements carried out during the year XIII."

"Attenuate the tone of the correspondence from Asmara, where Count Ciano (Mussolini's son-in-law) is concerned, especially the headlines."

"In Mussolini's speech, third paragraph, in the sentence '. . . never as today does the Italian people, etc.' . . . cancel the word 'profound', which follows the word 'justice'."

"In the message to the Blackshirts, in the sentence beginning 'Legionaires of the Revolution . . .' the words 'you must' are to be changed to 'you will'; the 'you must' which follows shortly after to be changed to 'you can'."

"An attitude of reserve to be maintained with regard to England, and also with regard to France and Germany."

"Great importance to be given, on the other hand, to our home activities. Insist on the inauguration of public works, especially the inauguration of the university buildings."

"Comment on the telegram sent to the Duce by the rabbit-breeders and poultry farmers."

"Dedicate the whole of the first page to the inauguration ceremony of the university buildings. In a very emotional tone. (Sensibilizzare molto.)"

"Comment on the Duce's speech."

IN ROUMANIA

Here is an excerpt of a letter to the Manchester Guardian from Lascelles Abercrombie, professor of English literature at the University of London, backed by the staffs of the leading British universities:

"Sir: We feel it our duty to call your attention to the tragic plight of Professor Constantinescu, lecturer in Byzantine art, of Kichinev, Roumania. Professor Constantinescu has achieved a world reputation for his research work in archeology and the history of art. He has pursued his studies in 16 European countries, including England, and has published the results of his labors in many books and articles. In all he has published 72 volumes, dealing in the main with Byzantine art and with the repercussions of Christianity on ancient art. In 1929 he took part in an international archeological commission.

"This great scholar has apparently one fault. He is a fearless opponent of war and Fascism. Whatever he has done, however, to combat these twin evils of our time, has been perfectly open and legal. In Roumania he has organized a broad movement of intellectuals against war and Fascism. Although no definite charge was preferred against him, this apparently was the crime which led to his imprisonment at the end of November, 1934. He only regained provisional freedom after he had starved himself for 32 days and when a delegation of foreign educationists had traveled to Bucharest and Kichinev to plead for his release."

But now, nearly a year after, Professor Constantinescu has been sentenced to a long term in prison—virtually a death sentence for a man of his present frail health.

Has Comedy Role In Senior Play

Helen Bauman

The black-face comedy character of Senior high school's coming production of "Huckleberry Finn" is Melba, a very superstitious colored domestic in the home where Huck creates eventful chaos. Helen Elaine Bauman has been cast for this part. Her lines and her acting are sure to draw as much applause as will the antics of Huck himself.

Miss Bauman is active in amateur theatricals, having already had roles in several comedies. She is a member of the Girl Reservers' organization in the Senior high school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bauman, of East Winter avenue.

useful in curing blindness in the living. Tissue from dead eyes has been successfully transplanted to living eyes and there is hope of thus curing certain types of blindness.

Milton's sight might have been given back to him, and Homer's although restoration of sight with increased interest in mundane affairs might have reduced imaginative power in Paradise Lost and the Iliad.

An "eye," more important to men than any living eye; an eye that may LOOK out into space for man's enlightenment during thousands of years—namely, an astronomical lens, sixteen feet in diameter—will soon be traveling from the Corning Glass Works in New York west to the California Institute of Technology.

There, four years will be devoted to grinding and polishing the 40,000-pound piece of glass, destined to take the sight of man twelve hundred million light years into space.

To know how many miles that amounts to, multiply twelve hundred millions by six trillions or 1,200,000,000 by 6,000,000,000,000.

Compared with that, nothing else is important. Man's mind cannot conceive, even, of one billion, although his cupidity eagerly seizes upon it, and here six thousand millions are multiplied by a billion and two hundred millions.

COUPLE FACE DEATH PENALTIES

Leo Hall — Peggy Paulson

Leo Hall, 34, one-time prizefighter and longshoreman, and Miss Peggy Peterson Paulson, 26, former waitress, face death penalties in their trial at Port Orchard, Wash., courthouse, for the mass murder of six persons at Erland's Point, Wash., on March 28, 1934. Mrs. Paulson told police authorities that Hall slew the four men and two women in an attempted robbery, but that she had nothing to do with the crime.

Hand To Hand Battle Reported

(International News Service)

ROME, Dec. 10.—Fifteen Abyssinians were slain in a hand-to-hand battle on the northern front, Italian Communique No. 67 said today.

"On the Eritrean front, our detachments came into conflict with a strong group of armed Abyssinians near the Takkaze river in the region south of Addi Encato," the statement said.

"The enemy was attacked with bayonets and put to flight, leaving 15 dead.

"The Italians lost two Eritrean non-commissioned officers and five Askaris (native troops)."

Wealthy Cuban Kidnap Victim

(International News Service)

HAVANA, Dec. 10.—Nicholas Castano, wealthy Cienfuegos sugar mill owner, today was the victim of kidnapers, according to police.

Beyond admitting that he was taken from his Havana home, the snatch-victim's family refused to divulge details of the kidnaping.

Wealthy citizens of Cuba have been held for ransom in the past by rebels desirous of raising money for revolutionary purposes.

Wall Street may be innocent, but why does it act so cheerful when a Federal Court rules that the law can't make it be honest?

CURRENT EVENTS '06 HAS YULE FESTIVITY

A good attendance of Current Events '06 members, augmented by two special guests, Mrs. Charles Gibson and Mrs. Fred Beck, enjoyed the annual holiday party on Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. C. Morrow on Walnut street.

Group singing of many of the beautiful Christmas carols, with Miss Mary Morehead at the piano, was a delightful feature, together with a Christmas story entitled "David's Star of Bethlehem", by Mrs. Carl Wilson. An exchange of gifts was of additional interest and tea was served from an attractively decorated table in the dining room.

Mrs. John Ingham, the president, presided at the tea service and assisting the hostess in serving were Mrs. T. C. Armstrong and Mrs. George McClelland. The entertainment committee was composed of Mrs. J. L. McConaghy, Mrs. C. E. Book and Mrs. P. N. Brest to all of whom credit is due for as nice a holiday party as has been on the club calendar.

The next regular meeting is scheduled for January 13, at the home of Mrs. W. E. Brown, South Walnut street.

Members of the E. N. C. club will hold their annual Christmas party and exchange of gifts in the home of Mrs. R. J. Fredericks, East New Castle, Thursday of this week.

A Christmas party, with dinner at 6:30 p. m., brought members of the Alma Broadhead Circle of the First Baptist church together in the home of Miss Charlote Emery, Sheridan avenue, on Monday evening.

The Misses Florence Davis and Grace Johns were associate hostesses, and in assisting, Miss Emery had as aides the members of the social committee, Mrs. Florence Reese and Miss Dorothy Williamson.

Twenty-one guests, including three non-members, Mrs. Vogan, Mrs. C. H. Heaton and Mrs. Mary Hammond, were present and found pleasure in the program and exchange of gifts. A letter from Rev. William Hammond, South America, was read during the evening.

STATE GRAND REGENT ANNUAL PARTY GUEST

Knights of Columbus hall on North Jefferson street was filled with a merry throng Monday evening, the annual party of Court Teresa Irene, 231, being held, with about 60 guests in attendance.

Miss Frances Maher of Kane, Pa., state grand regent, who is the house guest of Mrs. Evelyn Woods, was guest of honor, together with the Junior Court. A glistening Christmas tree added a festive setting to the occasion, and there was an exchange of lovely gifts.

Under the direction of Mrs. E. J. Suber, chairman, a splendid program was presented, as follows: prayer, Rev. Father A. P. Scholtz, court chaplain; song, "Jingle Bells", assembly. Mrs. Suber introduced Miss Maher and there was a welcoming address by Mrs. Evelyn Woods, grand regent of the local court.

Following the guests were entertained with a jazz toe dance by Vivien Lemley; reading by Cordelia Edgington; song and dance, Eileen Murphy; piano solo, Rose Uhl; acrobatic dance, Shirley Hammond; reading, "Christmas Spirit", Ethel Margaret Donegan; tap dance, Delores O'Leary; song and dance, Earl Hammond. In conclusion the assembly sang "Silent Night", Mrs. James Hammond furnishing delightful accompaniment as she did for all the musical numbers. Interspersing the program the court choir of 12 voices rendered appropriate selections.

During the evening Miss Maher was presented with a beautiful gift. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge: Mrs. Suber, Mrs. Evelyn Woods, Mrs. Ann McCann, Mrs. Hazel Sewald, Mrs. Stella Malloy, Mrs. Bernadine Ryan, Mrs. Mary Brown, Miss Margaret Travers, Mrs. Mary Geddes, Mrs. Marie Metz, Mrs. Elizabeth Krueger.

Childhood days were revived Monday evening, when members of the Aid-A-Gi Club enjoyed a kid party in the home of Miss Esther Grossman, of Laurel Boulevard.

VENISON DINNER HONORS BIRTHDAYS

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Blackford of Kenneth avenue entertained a gathering of 20 guests in their home at a venison steak dinner, which was a means of celebrating the former's success during the hunting season, and also to honor the birthday anniversaries of Tom Blackford, his son, and Miss Ruth Bastress of Sharon.

The table was beautifully decorated in a color theme of pink and white, with two large birthday cakes, at either end, topped with glowing candles. After the serving of a sumptuous menu the participants showered the honored ones with a number of lovely gifts in remembrance of the event, taking them by complete surprise. A period of informal pastimes occupied the balance of the leisure hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bastress, son Robert and daughters, Ruth, Mary and Betty Jane, of Sharon, were the out-of-town guests.

Ruth Sprott, of Leasure avenue, will be hostess to the Friday Nighters on December 13, instead of this evening as announced.

"Oh, never mind," said the girl. "But you might tell me: What is golf?"

Secret Testimony Of State Police Hit Hauptmann

New York Paper Says Net Closed Around Him Before Trial

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10—In a copyrighted story today, the New York Journal discloses for the first time secret testimony to New Jersey state police officials that tightened the net around Bruno Richard Hauptmann long before he went on trial for the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

The records of this testimony, according to the newspaper's account, reveal:

(1)—That one of Hauptmann's friends, visiting him shortly after the $50,000 ransom was paid for Baby Lindbergh, saw two stacks of bills in Hauptmann's radio cabinet, and that Hauptmann explained quickly he was "holding it for a friend."

(2)—That another friend spread news a few days after the kidnaping that Hauptmann had injured his leg and was under a doctor's care. (The state has always maintained that Hauptmann hurt his leg falling from the kidnaper's ladder with the baby in his arms.)

(3)—That when Hauptmann heard a radio announcement the baby's body had been found he predicted in cocksure manner that even if the kdnaper were caught there would be no evidence and "if he does not talk they can do nothing to him."

Chinaman Is Placed On Trial At Court

Claimed He Lured Little Girls To His Laundry By Giving Them Money

The unusual spectacle of a Chinaman on trial in criminal court was witnessed this morning when Charles Yee, Chinese laundryman, was placed on trial before Judge James A. Chambers on a serious charge made by Nick Lewchenko, of Ellwood City, in behalf of his fifteen year old daughter, Mary Lewchenko.

It is claimed by the commonwealth that Yee lured little girls into his laundry by giving them money to buy candy. The Lewchenko girl had been missing over night when her father came here, and with the aid of police, found her at the laundry, it is stated.

The jury which was chosen to try the case is composed of ten men and two women.

1,000 Monkeys Are Bound For U. S. In Simian Troopship

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA.—A new kind of "troopship" is now on its way from India to America. The "soldiers" on board are 1,000 monkeys.

They are being sent to help medical science in the United States in its war on disease.

When the ship, the "City of Rayville," reaches New York after its six-weeks' voyage from Calcutta the animals will be sent to the big hospitals there and in Chicago, Philadelphia and other important cities throughout the United States. Doctors and scientists will use the animals in medical research.

The gibbering cargo may thus be the means of saving untold numbers of human lives in the future.

A great crowd gathered at Kidderpore Docks, Calcutta, to watch the monkeys, chattering excitedly in their cages, being placed on board and gave them a great send-off.

Cookie Denied Him Boy, 9, Burns Town

(International News Service)

PLOESTI, Rumania—Nine years old Aurel Dragomir, a farmer's son, caused the whole town of Ciorani to be destroyed because his mother refused to give him a cookie. Although he had a pain in his stomach from too much eating, Aurel kept pestering his mother for just one more cookie. The tired woman's final reply was a slap on her son's fat cheek.

Deeply hurt in his feelings, Aurel decided to revenge himself by setting fire to the barn. One match was enough to cause a blaze which destroyed practically the whole town.

Aurel will eat his next cookies, if any, in the reformatory where he will spend six years of his life.

Seeds From Plane Reforest An Island

(International News Service)

HONOLULU—In making its first nonstop flight from the mainland to Hawaii, the U. S. Army plane, "Bird of Paradise," scattered some seeds over a barren portion of the island of Kauai. That was in 1929.

This week a "mystery forest" of thousands of karaka trees was discovered by a group of boys building trails in Waimea canyon. The trees are native to New Zealand and not to Hawaii; therefore their presence was an enigma until the announcement was made. Planting had been done from the air in the mountainous portion through army cooperation with the territorial forestry board.

Famous Showman Is Recovering From Serious Illness

(International News Service)

SARASOTA, Fla.,—Far from the sawdust trail and the crowds he loved so well, lives John Ringling last of the famous Ringling Brothers, who is recovering from a serious illness.

He is a familiar figure throughout the city. He is a regular attendant at the weekly fights and wrestling shows.

In fact his interest has turned from his circus elephants and hippos to the human giants of the canvas.

John Ringling apparently is no longer interested in the famous circus which bears his name and is reputed to have severed all connections with the enterprise. Mrs Charles Ringling, widow of one of his brothers, usually accompanies the circus on its annual 15,000 mile trek into the highways and byways of the United States.

The circus still maintains winter quarters here and there's circus atmosphere near at hand when Ringling feels homesick for the "big top'.

Campaigns To Oust Reich's Bar Girls

(International News Service)

BERLIN—Will the portly, beermug carrying South German waitresses, a special feature of the large beer halls in Munich and other places, as well as the "gold-diggers" in bars and night clubs, altogether disappear in Germany?

Karl Walter, leader of the commerce group of the German Labor Front, pleads for measures to oust them gradually on the grounds that "a German woman is too good to serve as a siren."

Claiming that about 46 per cent of all employes in the gastronomical trade are women, Walter urges their replacement by men. Statistics and medical examinations revealed that the physical condition of women workers in restaurants, bars and night-clubs quickly deteriorates.

A serious offense is anything a Chinaman does when Japan is ready to take some more territory.

SENIOR GIRL RESERVES

The weekly meeting of the Senior Girl Reserves opened last night at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A. with Dorothy Cooper leading the devotions. The president, Peggy England, introduced a number of projects for the club's consideration, including the dressing of dolls for Christmas and joining with other clubs in singing Christmas carols in the public square on Christmas eve. The group voted in favor of both. Earlier in the season the club agreed that each member should pay a nickel that the group picture might be printed in the school annual.

The girls adjourned to the interest groups, after which many of the girls witnessed a basketball game in the gym between the Senior H Girl Reserve team and the True Blue Circle, an industrial club of the Y. W. The former team is coached by the Misses Anne Hensley and Dorothy Pugh, and the latter team by Mrs. Jennie Ostrosky.

A Christmas program is scheduled for the Girl Reserves next Monday evening at 7:30.

A dinner-meeting of the club cabinet took place yesterday at five p. m. Reports were heard from Janet Hartland, program chairman, and Charlotte Whiteman, membership chairman. Miss Geraldine Turk, chief adviser, was present. A special meeting of the cabinet is called for next Monday at 6:45 p. m.

On the supper committee were Helen Bauman, Miriam Clinefelter and Jean Short.

During the next four years the county unions will endeavor to raise two dollars per member for the Willard Centenary . It was decided to have a "loyalty luncheon" on January 16. The committee to arrange for this is Mrs. T. A. Gilkey, Mrs. W. J. Marshall, Mrs. Robert McBurney, Mrs. Merle Stetson, Mrs. Clara Miller, Mrs. George Burroughs and Mrs. J. G. Weir.

The meeting was adjourned after prayer by Mrs. Ida Mae Allison.

Information On Employment Will Cost $12,000,000

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The WPA is going to spend $12,000,000 employing some 24,000 "white collar" workers to find out why so many millions of industrial workers are not working.

Corrington Gill, assistant WPA administrator, said today the purpose of the program—called the "national research program"—will be "for collecting information essential to the factual guidance of the administrative policy and action."

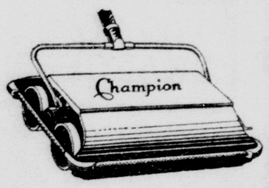

The first part of the program, which will have headquarters in Philadelphia, will be to "study reemployment opportunities and recent changes in industrial techniques." David Weintraub, who has been one of Gill's assistants, will be in charge.

FORESEE CHANGES IN GOV. EARLE'S CABINET

Kalodner Will Become Judge

Several Mentioned As Likely To Get Place He Will Vacate

MORE PATRONAGE CHANGES SEEN

By J. WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—Political patronage, temporarily set aside as the capitol dwelled upon the question of a special legislative session, is again occupying the attention of Earle administration leaders.

Soon after the holidays, if not before, several important capitol posts are expected to be filled by Gov. George H. Earle. At least two cabinet changes are anticipated among the shifts, according to usually reliable sources.

Of greater interest to the average voter and taxpayer, however, is the long-delayed final "payroll purge" to clean the personnel rolls of all holdover Republicans. Although dismissals and appointments have increased in number since the November 5 election, Republicans still at work in state offices have been expecting the administration axe to fall any day to make the commonwealth payroll 100 per cent Democratic.

See Cabinet Changes

Most definite of the cabinet changes is the appointment of a successor to Harry E. Kalodner as secretary of revenue. Kalodner, almost without question, is expected to be named to the Philadelphia judgeship now held by Judge Horace Stern, the successful Republican supreme court candidate.

For Kalodner's revenue responsibilities the governor appears to be teetering in his choice between Deputy Attorney Geenral Robert L. Myers, Jr., defeated superior court contender, and Gilbert Spruance, who ran for sheriff of Philadelphia on the Democratic ticket. Spruance is sponsored by John B. Kelly, Philadelphia Democratic leader, while Myers has the support of the governor's western advisers.

Should Spruance move to the revenue secretary's chair, Myers probably would be offered the post of secretary to Governor Earle, held "part time" by Kalodner since he was moved last summer into the cabinet family.

Another Possibility

Another name mentioned as a successor to Kalodner is that of youthful Curtis Bok, who was defeated in the race for district attorney in Philadelphia. This choice, however, is the least likely of the three, as Bok is also under consideration for local appointment in Philadelphia.

In addition to these changes, both Relief Director Robert L. Johnson and Dr. Luther A. Harr, secretary of banking, are expected to return to private business within the next few months. Johnson, who came here from Connecticut, will go back to his publishing business. Dr. Harr, rumored numerous times to be on the verge of resigning, is understood ready to withdraw from the political picture now that the new state banking board is organized and functioning as he planned.

Johnson, who has fulfilled his agreement to direct the state's relief program for one year, is expected to leave his post shortly in view of the fact that the WPA and PWA will be handling the major portion of the future relief program. With the halt in federal direct relief aid, a concerted drive was launched to transfer the cases to the WPA, and Johnson regards his work as completed.

The Who's Who Club of Grade 5-A of Thaddeus Stevens school will meet on December 13, for the purpose of electing officers.

East New Castle Hunters Bring Back Four Deer

Five members of the East New Castle Rod and Gun club went to Mayburg in Forest county on the opening day of deer season and by the time that the party was ready to return to New Castle several days later had four deer.

The biggest of the deer was shot by Tom Shaffer, the animal having a 13-point head, and weighing about 200 pounds. John Seward shot a 7-point deer, T. J. Shaffer shot a 6-point deer, and C. W. Shaffer shot a 8-point deer.

The men report a plentiful supply of deer in the Forest county area. Hunting conditions were ideal according to Tom Shaffer.

Vension Dinner Being Planned

Members of the East New Castle Rod and Gun club will hold a venison deer at the Orr Community hall on Grove street, on the night of December 18, according to an announcement by Tom Shaffer, president of the club today.

Shaffer would like to have all of the members of the Rod and Gun club meet at the range at 7 o'clock Friday night for a discussion of the dinner, and to appoint committees to handle the banquet which will consist chiefly of deer.

But a study of the investments made by the thrifty shows that 50 million Americans can be wrong.

KEEPING UP WITH JONESES MAKES YOU DWYRYD, NO LESS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 10.—Eleanor Dwyryd Jones will be known hereafter as Telynores Dwyryd, she declared upon her recent return from a European tour with a Welsh singing society of Salt Lake City.

The reason? Just a little matter of righting a wrong that has persisted for many generations.

"Jones is a name thrust upon us hundreds of years ago by the English, who divided the Welsh into groups and labeled them Jones, Hughes, Thomas, and so on," she declared.

Miss Jones, or Dwyryd as she now prefers to be called, said she learned about this abuse when she stopped in Wales on her way home from Norway.

Grangers Hear State Master's Address Today

ceived, and the approval of our efforts, expressed both verbally and written. This has done much to dispel clouds of gloom and to encourage us in this glorious work, and our only regret is the lack of time and energy to do the things that we would.

During the year we have had many experiences. Grange growth has been very gratifying, and while we have not made the gain we had hoped, we should be pleased with a gain of 2,000 members. We have encountered many problems and are gratified with the united front supporting us.

We appreciated the frank expressions of those who differed with us, as we are taught in our Order that "difference of opinion is no crime, the fault lies in the bitterness of controversy." It has been our aim to rely upon wisdom, gained from experience, in our initiation up to our present responsible position; to rely upon calmness in deliberation and with forbearance toward those who may differ from us and with charity towards their motive. Influenced and guided by the spirit of fraternity, we have endeavored to practice the motto, "In essentials, unity; in nonessentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

Condition Of The Order

The increase in membership, the cooperation of our membership and the recognition of our accomplishments, both from our members and those outside our ranks, are evidence of a healthy condition.

The record show that five Subordinates and sixteen Juveniles have been organized and eleven Subordinates and four Juveniles have been reorganized during the year. Some Granges have disbanded, but the members can and are being cared for in other Granges.

One of our most encouraging features is the strengthening of our weaker Granges. We are desirous to build up the weaker Granges, hoping that the time may soon come when a Grange of 100 will be considered among our weakest Granges. A Grange with a membership of 100 or more has many possibilities that a Grange of twenty-five or less cannot enjoy. A good membership and a well replenished treasury has much to do with making any organization more successful.

Membership Drives

We do not favor membership contests. Too often they tend to produce disastrous results, but well-planned membership drives have been very successful, and we are convinced that the average Grange can add thirty per cent to its membership with a well-planned and well-worked drive. Some Granges have more than doubled their membership by a drive, while many that were practically dormant have sprung to life and are now in fine shape. We have no record of a drive that failed when it was well planned and well worked. "Labor has its sure reward."

Agriculture

There is no question that agriculture is still in a depressed condition and has been for the last decade. We have been looking for the dawn of prosperity but so far have not seen it. We are convinced of the last statement by answers we receive when we inquire as we travel over the state. It is true some prices have advanced; but mostly on things that the farmer does not have to sell but has to buy. The latter offsets any gain that he may have received.

In order to have prosperity on the farm, we must have wealth on the farm. There are only two sources of wealth—mother earth and labor. Reducing wealth and increasing prices will never restore prosperity. The solution to the farmer's problem is efficiency in production, economy in distribution, cooperation and confidence between producer, distributor and consumer; and last but not least, a chance for the farmer to work out his own problems instead of intrusting it to a "brain trust." These requisites can be brought about only by fraternal organization work among farmers.

It is true that taxes have much to do with our situation, but they are always paid by the producer or the consumer regardless of where they are assessed or collected, and just as long as we keep adding more to our government payroll, we may expect our taxes to increase. They may be shifted from one source to another but the same people pay the bill. "Jones pays the freight." We hear much about reducing salaries. That would be fine. It would help the taxpayers some, but to reduce the number of bureaus and departments would help more, and many of them could be abolished without hardship to anyone except those on the payroll.

Prosperity will never permanently return until efficiency, economy and confidence are restored and practice not only in agriculture, but in industry, in the professions, in the state and nation.

Taxation

The ability to tax its subjects is the greatest power of a nation. Without this ability no nation could long exist. However, it must be admitted that both in the state and in the nation we have reached the limit of endurance so far as taxes upon agriculture are concerned. The constant effort and endeavor to find new sources for placing additional burdens upon the taxables must be opposed. We have come to the time when we must demand less centralization of power and less taxes. The alternative is to reduce the cost of government by elimination of duplication of effort by consolidating governmental agencies where one department can do the work of two or more, and by decreasing salaries of officials of higher officialdom. This is not a new item in the Grange program, for my predecessors in office have advocated similar courses in their messages from time to time. It is my hope that the several committees to be appointed, who will have occasion to consider subjects of taxation, pay special attention to our past Grange policy with relation to the reduction of taxes. When such a common thing as "bread" carries thirty-two different taxes, it is high time that the Grange take up a militant fight against increasing the tax burden further, and, therefore, it is my earnest request that this State Grange pay particular attention to the ways and means for a proper distribution of the tax load and the removal of any unjust or any unfair tax from the home and the owner.

Relative to the recent decision of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court in regard to the legality of the graduated income tax law, passed at the last Session of the Legislature, it must be noted that the effort to enact a graduated income tax law must continue. However, great precaution must be taken that the burden be properly and equitably distributed so that those in the higher brackets will pay their full share. The weakness of the 1935 Act, which was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, lay in the fact that the burden would have rested largely upon those who are already paying a large share of the taxes. Regardless of the decision, we must continue to advocate and work for the enactment of a graduated income tax law.

We agree with our Worthy National Master that "there is a real solution to the question of inequitable wealth distribution and that it can be made in accordance with our Constitution and its ideals by upholding these five steps: (1) Restore and maintain good prices for the farmer; (2) shorter hours and fair wages for labor; (3) honest profits for legitimate business; (4) taxation based on ability to pay and benefits received; (5) use the power of cooperation and collective bargaining to protect the weak; and guarantee the individual and the small business man access to credits and to markets.

In these days when the tax burden is so excessive, we continue to advocate that the State take over, construct and maintain all the roads of the Commonwealth; money received from motor license fees and gasoline taxes must not be used for any other purpose but construction and maintenance of highways. I would recommend that we continue to advocate that motor fees and drivers' licenses should be reduced.

Ritualism

We cannot emphasize too strongly better ritualism. Many otherwise good Granges have failed because ritualism was neglected. Ritualism adds beauty, impressiveness and service to a Grange. Our best members are those that have been best initiated. Our best Granges are those that adhere closest to the ritual. Every Grange meeting should reflect the beauty of the ritual. Many valuable opportunities have been lost by Granges in not following the regular order of business. Strict adherence to the manual would avoid many small mistakes. Carelessness in small things deteriorates any organization.

Temperance

Since the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the temperance questions has become more important. Again we are beginning to feel the terrible effects of drunkenness. Travel on the highways has become more dangerous and efficiency of workers has become impaired. The evils of intemperance are becoming more pronounced every day.

We must teach not only temperance but total abstinence and work for the total abolition of the liquor traffic. I would advise each Grange to have at least one temperance program each year.

While we have legalized liquor, we must have more stringent laws. Fining and imprisoning a drunken driver after he has snuffed out the life of a dear one, is very poor satisfaction and an expensive way to maintain personal liberty, of which we heard so much during the days of prohibition. I would like to have the liberty to drive along the public road without some drunken driver having the liberty to take my life. Instead of punishing drunken drivers, drinking drivers should be banished from our highways.

The question is asked, "Has a nation that legalizes the sale of that which makes men drunk, any right to arrest a person for doing things because he is drunk?" I don't know. You answer it.

The transporting of liquor in a container with a broken seal should be prohibited. To have a magistrate exonerate a driver as not drunk because he did not have enough liquor in him to intoxicate does not tend to produce sobriety, or sober drivers.

Juvenile Granges

The work of the Juvenile Granges is progressing nicely. During the year gains have been made. Sixteen Juveniles have been organized and four reorganized, which makes Pennsylvania third in the nation in new Juveniles, and with reorganized Juveniles, we tie with the State of Washington for second place.

We expect to have the Juvenile degree conferred during this session and hope that many will avail themselves of the opportunity of taking the degree. I am anxious that the Juvenile work be emphasized. Many Juvenile members make the mistake of wanting to get into the Subordinate. They will have plenty of time in the Subordinate when they are too old for the Juvenile. If parents realized the value of the Juvenile, they would endeavor to keep their children there as long as possible. A good Juvenile can do for the child what the Subordinate cannot do. Many of our best Grangers are proud of what the Juvenile Grange did for them. Many have the erroneous idea that the Juvenile Grange is merely a place for the children to stay while the Subordinate Grange is in session. This is a mistaken notion. The purpose of the Juvenile is to carry on educational work for its members and teach the principles laid down in their manual.

The Juvenile Matron has an enviable position, an opportunity to render service to the coming generation second only to the parent and the teacher.

Our Obligation

We have taken solemn obligations of which every true Granger is proud. No one can take these obligations if they are true to themselves and true to the Order but that they are better for doing so. Do we cherish them as we should? How many of our people forget that they are members of a fraternal order and that it is their duty to support it and to love the brothers and sisters. I would recommend that more time be given to the teaching of our Order and to impress on our members the importance of their obligations. We sometimes speak of the obligations of other Orders and their importance. Study ours and see if there is not enough in it, and live up to it. Much might be said along this line, but more would be superflous.

Peace

Never in the history of our country was the subject of peace more of a live issue than at the present time. While we would not rob the heroes of war of any of their honor, we would give honor to the heroes of peace. Many times it requires more courage to uphold the cause of peace than it does to promote a war. I cannot think of any place where peace should be taught more than in a fraternal order.

The attitude of the human race at the present time is that of discontentment, of finding fault and of blaming the other fellow. We find this in all walks of life. Labor finds fault with capital and the capitalist finds fault with labor; the rich with the poor and the poor with the rich; the people with the administration, the administration with the courts; the courts with the legislature and the legislature with the people. In the end, it all comes back to the people, who must be taught the principles of peace and patriotism.

Pomona Granges

The Pomona Grange system of our state occupies an enviable position among the state granges. Our Pomonas are the best financed branch of our Order and are doing such to advance our interests. They are tying our Subordinates together and assisting them in many ways. The Traveling Gavel meetings have been very successful, and while they were sometimes burdensome, the benefits repaid the effort. I would not advise their continuance or another state-wide Pomona visitation at present, but hope that the development of fraternalism that these visits promoted, will not soon die out, but that Pomonas continue to foster visiting. I think that our Pomona Master's organization is a good thing, but think it is not necessary to have a fund at their disposal which is collected from those who are fortunate enough to be Pomona Masters. When the Pomona Masters have a project that is worthy, it should be presented to the State Grange, and if sanctioned, should be financed by the State Grange. The same is true of Lecturers and other organizations. Organizations within other organizations should be tied very close to the parent organization.

Keystone Exchange

This is your organization and it cannot prosper without you and your patronage. If we expect our own interests to prosper we must give them our support. The possibilities of the Keystone Exchange are great but it will not develop without the support of those who own it. The manager's report will be interesting to you. The co-operative possibilities of the Grange have never been stressed as they should. Many farmers are joining other organizations and paying hard earned money to do so in order to get the things that the Grange can do for them through the Keystone Exchange.

We have been looking for outside interests to develop co-operatives for us. The sooner the farmer decides to run his own business through the Grange and other farm organizations, the better for him, and when he does this he will gain the respect that he should have.

Government And Relief

A year ago, the State Grange declared "that lasting prosperity and the good life for all the people depend upon a more just distribution of purchasing power and that a part of the solution of the unemployment problem, therefore, lies in providing work and compensation for every worker whether on the farm or in the factory. As a means of restoring the self-reliance of the unemployed and discouraging a system of pernicious doles, we would recommend remuneration for these labors to be paid out of present poor funds and demand that the program of reckless expenditure and waste be discontinued, and that persons responsible for the administration of relief work in county, state and nation devise some more economical, sane and conservative method for assisting worthy unfortunates."

Formerly, we were taught that it was our duty to aid the government; now, the poplar opinion is that it is the duty of the government to support its people. I would recommend that the Legislative Committee prepare a definite report on this subject for presentation to this body before adjournment Thursday evening.

Legislation

During the last regular session of the Legislature your Legislative Committee gave its full support to the legislative program as laid down by the last annual session, held at Hershey, Pa., as well as full consideration of the general policies of the Order, the result of years of effort.

The activities of the Legislative Committee were fully reported in a book issued and distributed to all Subordinate Masters and State officers. It must be borne in mind that the Pennsylvania State Grange is a truly representative organization. All actions and policies of the State Grange, whether originating in Subordinate or Pomona Granges, or by resolution introduced in annual sessions, are referred to committees, and all reports of committees are subject to debate. The resultant final action is by you as official delegates, which compose the legislative body of our Order.

A policy once adopted remains the policy of the Order, until modified by subsequent action of the State Grange. Thus, it is seen that the matters of important public interest that concern our people must receive careful deliberation at this session to enable our Legislative Committee to carry on our work. Never before have there been so many issues at stake as now. Relief for the unemployed and needy, great problems of social and economic welfare, further liberalization of our moral laws, and the ever-present problem of taxation must receive your consideration here.

We cannot escape nor sidestep these great issues. The coming special session of the Legislature will be called upon to legislate on these and other similar subjects. Increased taxes, social security, and relief must be considered by you. We must swerve neither too far to the right nor to the left, but by deliberation, thought and study define the position of this Order on these issues with "calmness and firmness."

The 69th annual session of the National Grange, just held at Sacramento, California, had thirty-five states represented in its voting body, drew a large attendance of alert farm people, and outlined a constructive and clear-cut program for American agriculture; defining both emergency needs and a long-range permanent program. Nine days crowded full of busy sessions, paid attention to the varied needs of the rural people and indicated many practical directions through which national recovery may be reasonably expected.

All through the session the keynote was cooperation—helping the farmers to help themselves, through their own initiative and controlled groups, rather than depending upon government aid to provide their income. Recognizing the value of emergency legislation and projects, and urging amendments thereto to insure maximum benefits, the National Grange insists that the greater agricultural need is a permanent policy for the farmer's welfare; and the Sacramento session declared very clearly the essential features of such a policy.

The Grange emphatically restates its well-known attitude against the liquor traffic and adds its denunciation of the spread of the gambling evil; declares that any motor driver under the influence of intoxicating liquor should be adjudged guilty of felony; and pledges its support anew to the local church, to the public schools and to all community betterment projects.

Nearly 1,700 members of the organization received the highest degree of the Grange at Sacramento, and the biennial election of officers overwhelmingly indorsed National Master Louis J. Taber for another two-year term, following his progressive leadership of the past twelve years in that responsible position. It was voted that the 1936 session of the National Grange shall be held in Ohio, with a record-breaking attendance expected.

The National Grange Favors

Rigid economy in government and a balanced budget at the earliest possible date.

Self-help for farmers rather than government subsidies of any sort.

Continuation of Federal guarantee of bank deposits in sums of $5,000 and less.

Extension of the Postal Savings Bank System.

Old age insurance based upon an adequate contributory plan.

Issuance of Treasurey Notes (not not exceed $3,000,000,000) instead of government bonds, for financing Federal projects.

Maintenance of high quality in all imported dairy products.

Including highway safety in public school courses.

Control measures by the government to prevent the spread of noxious weeds.

Conscript wealth, as well as men, in the event of war.

Eliminate the profits from the manufacture of war munitions.

A graduated land tax to discourage the concentration of land under one ownership.

Restored control of Federal Land Banks to farmer borrowers.

Proper regulation of size, weight and speed of motor vehicles upon the highways.

Elimination of political influences from the administration of all farm organizations.

An excise tax upon all butter substitutes manufactured or sold in the United States.

Development of Land Grant Colleges, Vocational Education, the Extension Service, and work in Home Economics, 4-H Clubs and the Future Farmers.

The National Grange Opposes

Transfer of Forestry from the Department of Agriculture to any other department.

All moves that seek to cripple or restrict highway transportation; or to place motor regulation solely under the control of the Federal government.

Reciprocal trade practices or favored-nation treaties using industrial products to the disadvantage of agriculture; especially condemning the recent reciprocity treaty with Canada, certain to prove injurious to the growers of many American farm products.

Possession of land by aliens under pretense of ownership by minor children

The resettlement program except when very carefully considered and guided by sound common sense.

Advertising intoxicating liquors over the radio.

Issuance of all tax-exempt securities.

Any reduction of present tariff rates on seed potatoes, maple sugar, hay, or other farm staples.

Proposed legislation to make cooperatives ineligible to receive government loans.

Creation of a Federal Department of Education.

Short selling or gambling in foodstuffs or the necessities of life.

Amendments to the Constitution of the United States which may alter or undermine our present system of representative government.

Conclusion

Not since the Grange was organized has there been such an urgent need for organized effort as exists today. As we meet here in New Castle, the eyes of all Pennsylvania are upon us and await news of the course the Grange will chart for the coming year. Happily, there are signs of closer cooperation between farm groups in this State, and the attitude taken by us on matters of public interest has created a desire on the part of many to join the Grange.

I trust that each member, each Deputy and State officer will become thoroughly enthused with the work of this session; that they will go back to their Granges with new inspiration and a desire to "carry on" the work of the Grange more efficiently than ever before. The work of the session is in your hands may you discharge your duties in a manner creditable to you and for the benefit of our beloved Order.

Fraternally submitted.

J. A. BOAK.

Thermometer To Record Progress Of Seal Campaign

Results Of Christmas Seal Campaign Will Be Tabulated Daily For Public

Under the direction of The Townsmen committee, which has charge of the annual Christmas Seal campaign of the Lawrence County Anti-Tuberculosis society, a beautiful thermometer has been constructed which will record the daily progress of the campaign.

This thermometer has been placed in a Mercer street store window temporarily, but in the next few days will be moved to a permanent location.

Requests for additional seals are being received daily, and those who wish additional seals may secure them at the headquarters of the society, 17½ South Mercer street, above the City Rescue Mission.

But is seems very easy to avoid war when statesmen are afraid their cannon fodder wouldn't fight.

Night Clubs And Tap Rooms Making Highway Dangerous

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10— Tap rooms and night clubs are largely responsible for the huge increase in early morning automobile fatalities and injuries, J. Borton Weeks, chairman of the enforcement committee of the Pennsylvania highway safety council, declared here Monday.

In an attack on drunken, reckless and irresponsible drivers, Weeks asserted that early morning accidents in Pennsylvania increased from 2029 in 1929 to 5,764 in 1934 and "the conclusion is inescapable that the tap room and night club must bear a large share of responsibility for the high rate of deaths and injuries."

Action Needed

"There is little or no enforcement of motor vehicle laws after midnight Weeks declared, "and unless drastic action is taken without delay, the highways of Pennsylvania will become too dangerous for the average competent and sober motorist to use in the hours after one a. m."

Weeks believes the only remedy is to deprive intoxicated motorists of driving privileges and pointed out that 1935's early morning accident record will probably surpass that of last year as 201 persons were killed and 2,709 injured in 4,750 accidents during the first ten months of the current year.

"Water-Smeller" Says Work Hard On Constitution

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 10.—After 58 years of "water-smelling" Ezra Martin, of Lancaster, has decided to call it quits.

Martin, who is one of Lancaster county's most noted water-spotters, says very modestly that there is really nothing very mysterious about the business. Most anyone could do it.

Here's his formula:

First, get a forked stick, grasp the ends of the stick with the crotch of the twig higher than the ends. Then start to walk. If the stick takes a sudden and unaccountable dip toward terra firma, you are a water smeller, and have found a potential well.

But it's a very wearying task, and Martin said the other day:

'I've found my last well."

Yee Kid Sou Acts Like "Melican" Man

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—Yee Kid Sou, dashing Braddock laundryman, took another step towards becoming the outstanding playboy of the local Chinese population.

This time police answered a complaint that a Chinese was tearing around waving a knife in the faces of numerous Chinatown residents and making threatening speeches. In an alley in that district they came upon Yee Kid Sou and though they found no knife on his person, they found something on his breath.

He was booked on a charge of drunk and disorderly conduct. Three weeks ago Sou put on a six months parole for running amuck in a restaurant during a bout with a bottle of liquor.

AROUND CITY HALL

Only 39 cases of contagion were reported to the city health bureau during November, according to a report submitted by Health Officer, Dr. William L. Steen, to council. Measles affected 13 persons and 12 others had scarlet fever. Chickenpox whooping cough and mumps made up the balance of the cases.

When Dr. W. L. Steen, health officer, made his report for November to council he said he had made 36 examinations of water. Twenty two samples of water furnished consumers here were tested and 14 tests were made of water taken from privately owned wells and springs.

Plumbers should apply for their 1936 licenses, according to Harold Dunlap inspector of plumbing for the city. He said that he started giving out licenses December 1. There are about 45 persons affected. All of them must have licenses this month, Dunlap stated.

Six hundred and seventy tons of garbage were collected and disposed of by employes of the city department of garbage and incineration, during last month, according to Superintendent Howard Phillips. More than 100 loads were disposed of by non-city employes, his report to council added.

The budget ordinance when printed will be placed on display at the office of the finance director and city clerk. Any person interested in the meaure which will be passed finally December 30, can peruse the document. The measure has not yet been returned from the printing office.

One hundred and eighty six arrests were made last month by city police. Twenty four of the 186 paid fines amounting to $119.00. One hundred and three were charged with drunkenness. Only 14 were arrested on charges of violating laws pertaining to the operation and parking of automobiles.

Two seniors, one junior—young Byler—and four sophomores here have churches of their own already. Byler preaches at the Hanline Community church, Zanesville, O., and in the comparatively short length of time he has conducted his ministry there the size of the church has almost trebled. On Muskingum's campus he is known for his Y. M. C. A. and band work.

All of the seven, the college said today, are licensed by their denominations. They are all rated as outstanding students.

Death Takes Phil K. Shaner, Veteran Of Westmoreland Bar

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—Death today had removed from the Westmoreland county bar one of its most colorful characters, Attorney Phil K. Shaner.

Shaner died in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, after an operation. He was 60 last October 21.

A graduate of Washington and Jefferson college, he was known throughout the county for his defense work in criminal cases. Most of the prominent criminal cases in the county in the past 20 years found Shaner acting as defense counsel.

Shaner was well known for his generosity to those who sought his services but were without funds for fees and court expenses.

He leaves his widow, Flo McCormick Shaner and three children.

Escaped Convicts Are Captured In Rushville, Indiana

(International News Service)

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Dec. 10.—Two gunmen who poured a stream of bullets into two Indianapolis city detectives were surrounded in a house in Rush County near Milroy and captured by state police early today.

Those taken into custody were Paul Pierce, 26, and Donald Joseph, 28, both convicts who escaped from the Indiana state prison honor farm Oct. 4 last.

They surrendered without firing a shot, state police said.

Both prisoners were rushed to Indianapolis for questioning.

The trial of the two fugitives into Rush County was marked by abandoned, blood-stained automobiles.

Arrest Husband On Wife's Complaint

Police and Corporal Lawton of the Highway patrol last night arrested Anthony Rubert at 119 East Lincoln avenue on a warrant sworn to by his wife.

According to her complaint to the police he was drunk and had caused trouble. Rubert ordered the police from his home. At the time he did so Rubert was armed, police say.

His wife swore out a warrant at the office of Alderman Ewing. Police and Corporal Lawton returned to the home, effected an entrance and took Rubert into custody. A rifle and a revolver which he had in his possession were confiscated. Mayor Mayne turned him over to the alderman's custody today to answer to the charge preferred by his wife.

Welcome, State Grange!

to New Castle! and Thank You, Too!

The "thanks" are due you for your ever-ready spirit of co-operation that has resulted in the extension of rural electric lines hundreds of miles thruout the territory which we serve, for assisting us in many ways in bringing modern electrical methods to the farms in our territory; for helping us to brighten farm work and brighten farm homes . . .

Here are some of the things your co-operation has enabled us to accomplish in Rural Areas:

The extension of electric service to 2,481 farm homes in our territory (in 1925 only 230 farms were so served.)

The construction of almost 900 miles of rural lines.

Over 30% of farms in our territory supplied with electric service, compared with 22.3% in the state, and 11.5% in the nation.

The use of electric cooking, refrigeration and other equipment in hundreds of farm homes in this area; this use of service permits us to extend our rural service still further.

The adoption of electric farming methods on all types of farms.

The bringing of urban conveniences to the rural home; a social benefit that will strengthen the very foundation of American society.

The establishment of a rural extension plan
—that requires no financing on the part of a rural customer beyond his guaranteeing a reasonable use of service; —that, subject to the guarantee, costs the farmer no more for current than the city customer;
—that provides a definite reduction in the guaranteed use down to the ultimate elimination of the guarantee entirely.

Secretary Wallace Defends Canadian Farm Agreement

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Secretary of agriculture Henry A. Wallace today vigorously defended the recently signed reciprocal trade agreement with Canada in a speech before the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Wallace denied that the agreement would have any appreciable effect upon agricultural prices or markets and asserted the new treaty "attempts to undo the terrific damage done by the Smoot-Hawley Act of 1930." He said the new treaty had been drawn with extraordinary skill.

The secretary's address was given over almost entirely to a discussion of the effects of tariff rates on agriculture and to trade agreements arranged by President Roosevelt.

Speaking of the new Canadian treaty, he said:

"I believe the way this agreement is received by yourselves and other farmers of the United States may have an important bearing on the history of American agriculture and on the American people for perhaps the next 100 years."

Warning the farmers they must work together for the interest of agriculture, Wallace said:

"Farmers cannot afford to fall out among themselves for self-seeking interests which have opposed them are ready to take advantage of any division of their ranks."

Wallace held the Fordney-McCumber and Smoot-Hawley tariff acts, particularly the latter, responsible for the plight of the farmers of America. The processing tax he termed a "tariff for farmers." This did not undo all the damage of previous tariffs, the secretary asserted. He said:

"Here was the dilemma. If enough foreign goods suddenly were imported to permit the continued exportation of all of agriculture's surplus beyond domestic needs, the effect on our industrial and economic structure would be highly disturbing. Retreat by the farmers from the foreign market would place the shock of readjustment entirely on them."

The administration, he said, was attempting to bridge the gap between these two extremes. He continued:

"Agriculture's real and continuing problem is not how to stop the little trickle of competing farm markets but how to move its own surpluses into export. There is room for difference of opinion as to the best way to restore foreign trade."

Verdicts Rendered In Two Court Cases

Prosecutor Is Assessed One-Fourth Costs In Case Against Three Defendants

The jury in the cases of Adam Klink of Ellwood City, who was tried at court before Judge Hildebrand on charges of adultery and resisting an officer brought in a verdict of guilty as indicted.

In the cases of Frank Iovanella, Guiseppe Adamo and Domenick Mingione, who were tried before Judge Chambers on a charge of aggravated assault and battery on Andy F. Russo, the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The costs were divided equally among the three defendants and the prosecutor, each being required to pay one-fourth. This is a case in which Russo was alleged to have been attacked when he found the defendants in the vicinity of his garden near the Seventh ward. He had accused them of entering his garden.

Will Probe Finding Of Counterfeit Bill

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—Secret service agents told International News Service today they would order Agent John Kettl, now on a secret mission in the Erie-Warren district, to stop off in the Kane area to investigate discovery of a counterfeit $10 note there.

Reports that the bogus bill might be the work of a novice gang just beginning to circulate its currency, were discounted by division heads of the secret service here with the declaration that it might have been passed by larger counterfeiting bands while going through that section.

The note, drawn on the Federal Reserve bank of New York, was detected on clearing through the First National bank at Kane after being passed in payment of a medical bill.

Claim That Doctor Resisted Arrest

Case Against Dr. G. H. Garnett Is On Trial Before Judge Hildebrand

Dr. G. H. Garnett, colored physician, is on trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand today on a charge of assault and battery and resisting an officer. It is claimed that T. A. Hubley, state highway patrolman, stopped Dr. Garnett on the New Castle-Wampum road for alleged reckless driving. An argument ensued and Hubley with the assistance of another patrolman and some boys who were passing, tried to put Dr. Garnett in a car to take him to police station. It was then that he is alleged to have resisted, claiming that the officers had no right to arrest him. Later Dr. Garnett paid a fine and costs before an alderman for reckless driving, and supposed that the case was settled until the later charge was brought.

William J. Flowers Charged With Involuntary Manslaughter

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 10.—William J. Flowers, prominent Butler real estate and mortgage broker, went on trial here today on charges of involuntary manslaughter and hit-and-run driving.

The charges were an outgrowth of a fatal automobile collision last July 26 in which pretty Esther Von Krogh, 22, riding in the other car, was killed.

Because of the widespread puolic interest in the trial, prospective jurors were closely questioned, a procedure not usual in manslaughter cases.

Following selection of a jury, the court was to adjourn to the scene of the accident on the Pittsburgh to Butler highway, six miles from here.

A third charge of failure to stop and render assistance was quashed today on motion of Defense Attorney Harry Heilman of Kittanning.

Plan May Be Peace Basis

(International News Service)

ROME, Dec. 10.—Italy probably will accept the Hoare-Laval peace proposals as a basis for negotiations, International News Service was reliably informed today.

It was made clear, however, that this did not mean Premier Mussolini would approve the plan, but rather that he would accept it as a means of opening up talks which may lead to a settlement.

Government circles at this time stated the plan had not yet been presented to Italy.

Three Plead Guilty To Drunken Driving

John F. Powell, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, entered a plea of guilty at court today.

Herbert McNicholas, who was also charged with drunken driving, entered a plea of nolle contendere.

Mike Miller, charged with operating while intoxicated, entered a plea of guilty. All three will be sentenced later.

If he thinks dogs superior to people, it is because dogs are dumb enough to think him a wonder.

President Roosevelt Speaks At Notre Dame

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Dec. 10.—America's traditional policy of religious tolerance was held up Monday afternoon by President Roosevelt for all the world to follow, as he paused here at Notre Dame University to accept an honorary doctor of laws degree in the presence of George Cardinal Mundelein and other high dignitaries of the Catholic church.

The president's brief speech in the historic halls of one of America's Catholic institutions of higher learning was politically significant because only a few weeks ago Michael Carmody, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, charged that Mr. Roosevelt had failed to carry out a promise to take the Mexican government to task for persecution of the Catholic faith.

As Mr. Roosevelt accepted Notre Dame's honor from the very Reverend John F. O'Hara, president of the university, he drew his text from the paragraph which George Mason many years ago wrote into the Virginia declaration of rights:

"Religion, or the duty which we owe to our creator, and the manner of discharging it, can be directed only by reasons and conviction, not by force and violence, and therefore all men are equally entitled to the free exercise of religion according to the dictatoes of conscience."

It was a hope, not a command, expressed by Mr. Roosevelt that other world powers, unnamed, adopt this credo. He had replied earlier to Carmody that this government had no business meddling in the internal affairs of other countries and he called none specifically to task. Rather, he put it this way:

"In the conflict of policies of political systems which the world today witnesses, the United States has held forth for its own guidance and for the guadance of other nations if they will accept it, this great torch of human thought, liberty of human conscience. We will never lower it. We will never permit, if we can help it, the light to grow dim. Rather, through every means legitimately within our power and our office, we will seek to increase that light, that its rays may extend the farther; that its glory may be seen even from afar.

"Every vindication of the sanctity of these rights at home; every prayer that other nations may accept them, is an indication of how virile, how living they are in the hearts of every true American."

The special convocation celebrated at Notre Dame Monday was in honor of Philippine independence and the president pointed out proudly that the Filipino people, in assuming their own sovereignty, are holding fast "to the rights of freedom of education and freedom of religious worship."

The president also took occasion to extoll the pioneer work in the middle west of the first Catholic missionaries and explorers, Joilet, Marquette, De La Salle, Hennepin, Father Badin, and the Apostolic Father Sorin, who founded Notre Dame.

"Good Samaritans" Are Still Scarce

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—According to Charles Exlien the world is just as void of "good samaritans" as it was in Biblical days—or at least Pittsburgh is.

One little fellow, however, wasn't too busy to recognize that help was needed in this case.

Exlien, suffering intense pain from a broken hip received when he fell from his wagon recently, crawled through the snow, unaided and apparently unnoticed, for an hour and a half until he finally collapsed.

A lad passing with a sled took compassion on Charles and helped him onto the sled and started for help.

On the way police discovered the pair and took the injured man to a hospital.

Neutrality is going to be easy when we can't side against Japan without siding with Russia.

Katharine Hepburn bet Hollywood friends $1,000 that no newspicture would be made of her on secret trip east to see Leland Hayward, her reported husband, who is ailing in Hartford, Conn., hospital. But here's picture of Miss Hepburn—wearing the usual pants—leaving the hospital with her mother. (Central Press)

Master Engraver Finds No Romance In Mill Sketches

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—Clare Leighton, Englishwoman and one of the world's master engravers, is disappointed that Pittsburgh's "men of action" do not "act" in a better climate.

Tired of the quiet English countryside where she spent two years making 88 cuts, she came to Pittsburgh to draw men working in mills, mines and factories.

Declaring that Pittsburghers were most kind but that Pittsburgh climate and circumstances were not so considerate, Miss Leighton lay ill in her room at the Schenley hotel.

Disappointment with the "mechanized modern steel mills" was expressed by the Englishwoman. She mourned:

"The powerful men, stripped to the waist, with nice, shiny muscles aren't there any more. It's too undramatic."

Her health permitting, Miss Leighton will sketch mill exteriors in a last roundup soon and leave for New York for an exhibit.

NO ONE WOULD QUALIFY

"Why did the new woman's club break up so soon?"

"The majority voted to have the three oldest women constitute the board."

Says Unemployed Could Carve New Alaskan Empire

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—The nation's unemployed could carve a new empire in Alaska if they had the spirit of Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett, declared the Rev. Bernard Hubbard, noted Jesuit explorer, here recently.

Given that spirit, he said, "there would be no limit to the possibilities of Alaska, the richest farming country in America."

Professor of geology in Santa Clara University, California, Father Hubbard is known as the "Glacier Priest" from his many trips to the Alaskan ice sheets.

Guests Can Catch Own Fish For Meal

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—One Philadelphia restaurant has found a way to pacify that type of patron who always insists on ultra-fresh sea food.

The restaurant, famous since Crinoline days, has installed aquariums in its new location. Customers may watch a fish or lobster swimming about and order a particular specimen for dinner.

In fact, declared the management, you may bring your own hook and line and fish for your dinner if you wish.

Home Rocked When Water Tank Bursts

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—The five members of the Cangelier family, sitting at coffee in their kitchen, thought an earthquake was in progress—but it was merely an overheated instantaneous water heater.

The explosion wrecked the first floor of the Cangelier home, tore up the paving in front of the house and shattered windows in adjoining homes. The loss was estimated at $3,000.

All five of the Cangeliers escaped injury.

Prisoners Make It Hot For Policemen

(International News Service)

Arrested for larceny, George and his cellmate set fire to the jail and effected their removal to the county jail at Washington, Pa.

"Too Many Beers" Got Him "Muddled"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10.—John Kennie, 33, thought he was home but discovered he wasn't when he tripped over some unfamiliar furniture.

Attracting the attention of Mrs. Eva Jacobs and William McKenzie, a lodger, Kennie was hard to convince he did not belong there.

Thinking McKenzie was an intruder, Kennie attacked him.

His final explanation to Magistrate Anthony Lucas that he had taken on "too many beers" didn't have the desired effect.

He was fined $10.

Arrival Of Check "Checks" His Heart

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Dec. 10.—Receipt of his long overdue pay from the WPA apparently proved too much for Joseph Novak, 43, for he died of heart failure a short time after the check arrived.

The back pay, which amounted to about $100, will likely be devoted to funeral expenses. Novak had no known relatives in the country.

Relief Meeting Is Postponed

Governor Earle Is Scored By Representatives Of Unemployed League

MEETING DELAYED UNTIL THURSDAY

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10— Postponement of the special meeting of the state emergency relief board until Thursday left Pennsylvania's unemployment problems still unsolved today as charges of "indifference" and "vacillation" were leveled at Gov. George H. Earle.

The charges came from repesentatives of unemployed leagues of the state, who accused the chief executive of "obvious discourtesy" in avoiding members of the various leagues who endeavored to obtain an appointment with him. Calling attention to the postponing of the relief meeting, which was to have been held today, the representatives asserted in a letter to Governor Earle:

"Your apparent indifference, vacillation, and lack of action in the present crucial situation, not to mention the obvious discourtesy to the spokesmen of those who suffer by it, is at great variance with your pre-election campaign speeches, your solemn inaugural pledges and your word to the unemployed."

Neglect Of Duty

"Moveover, you frequent excursions from the scene of duty at the capitol in the recent past month indicate the rewards and relaxation of an executive whose efficient methods permit of large personal freedom, in the present instance, however, in view of the pressure of events your absences are more likely to be construed by those who helped elect you to office and the public in general as a dangerous approach to inattention and neglect of duty."

Governor Earle postponed the meeting late yesterday afternoon, announcing certain information requested by secretary of revenue, Harry E. Kalodner for inclusion in a state-wide relief summary that was to have been presented at the session, was not available.

"Postponement of the session will give us additional time for further work on the summary." Govenor Earle told International News Service. "Sessions of the board have been postponed in the past, and there is nothing extraordinary about this postponement; we should be better prepared for the meeting on Thursday since additional and important information will then be available."

In their letter to the chief executive, however, the unemployed organization representatives declared the postponement was made, "your office informed our chairman, because of your trip to Kentucky to attend the inauguration of its new Democratic governor." The letter of rebuke was signed by Harold J. Ruttenberg, chairman, and George C. Wade, secretary, of the jobless groups.

Governor and Mrs. Earle, accompanied by several friends, left by plane for Washington last night, whence they were to entrain for Kentucky to be present for the inauguration of Governor-elect A. B. ("Happy") Chandler.

Relief heads and members of the state board were advised that everything would be in readiness for Thursday's meeting, at which it is anticipated steps will be taken to end the uncertainties and administrative problems of the relief situation throughout the state.

A.A.A. On Trial In Two Courts

Program Before Supreme Court And Court Of Public Opinion

ROOSEVELT PUTS ISSUE TO PUBLIC

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The AAA stood tiral today in two courts—the supreme court and the court of public opinion.

As the supreme court continued to hear arguments on constitutionality of the processing tax, President Roosevelt had boldly challenged foes of the AAA to make it an issue in the 1936 presidential election.

Solicitor-General Stanley Reed defended the law but Mr. Roosevelt vigorously told the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago that the AAA had pulled the farmer out of the doldrums.

Court Attitude Not Indicated

After two hours of arguments in the Hoosac Mills case yesterday, observers saw little to indicate the attitude of the court on the broad constitutional questions involved.

Questions asked by justices, together with observations, caused some spectators to hold that Justices McReynolds and Butler felt that congress improperly delegated taxing power to the secretary of agriculture.

The same observers say some intimation in questions of Justices Brandeis and Stone that they felt that the secretary had done just what congress told him to do in a legal way.

Assails Constitutionality

George Wharton Pepper, who opened argument for the Hoosac Mills, placed his assault on constitutionality of the AAA processing tax on the broad ground that it is merely a part of a scheme of congress to control production of agriculture, which the states alone can control.

The nine black-robed justices gave no intimation of their attitude on this broad question.

During yesterday's argument, justices and Reed discussed a point for 30 minutes which, it finally was determined, was not in the case. It revolved around the method chosen by the secretary of agriculture to determine parity price for agriculture. Justice Sutherland said counsel for Hoosac Mills did not question the regularity of this method.

Pepper declared the AAA is plainly an effort by congress to seize power of the states.

"The measure of that gap in prices which it is attempted to close is the difference between the golden age and the period when the tax was laid," he said.

TIME LIMIT FOR LENGTHY SERMONS BEING ADVOCATED

(International News Service)

AUCH, France, Dec. 10.—An archbishop has taken up arms against the interminable sermon, and has written a pastoral letter to all his clergy setting them a time limit of twenty minutes for the future during the harvest season, he declares, five minutes is long enough. He is the most Reverend Virgile Joseph Beguin, Archbishop of Auch, the native town of D'Artagnan, one of the three musketeers. Lourdes, the world-famous shrine to which innumerable pilgrimages are organized every year, is also in his diocese.

NUMBER THIRTEEN NOT UNLUCKY FOR THIS DEER HUNTER

They laughed when they saw his hunting license, No. 13, but it was Cecil Wooley who laughed last, and best.

Wooley, who resides in the Wright apartments, set out for Quinby's camp, at Coudersport, Pa., a week ago in company with a party of friends, John, Cy and James Ingham, Clyde Badter and Richard Nesbitt.

With the conspicuous, and purportedly unlucky, No. 13 plate on his shoulders, he was the target for a considerable bit of "razzing."

But—you've guessed it—Mr. Wooley was the very first in the party to bring down a buck, a nice 8-pointer.

Hi-Y Boys Return From Punxsutawney

Five Hi-Y boys representing the Hi-Y clubs of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. had returned with their adult leaders today from the Northwest Area Older Boys' conference held over the week end in Punxsutawney, Pa.

Willis Raney represented the Senior Hi-Y club, Jack Pattison, the Union Township Hi-Y; Sam Davy, the Washington Junior Hi-Y; Thomas McClurg, the Ben Franklin Junior Hi-Y, and Russell Minick, the Neshannock Township Junior Hi-Y.

Accompanying the boys east were Henry T. MacNicholas and Dario M. Baptiste, Hi-Y leaders. The three-day sessions drew 285 boys.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, executive secretary of the board of temperance and morals of the Methodist church, Washington, D. C., was one of several outstanding speakers heard. "Christian Youth Facing the Future" was the theme.

When the lawyer objects, it usually means that some witness is trying to tell the truth.

RADIO TALK GIVEN TO UPARATASA GROUP

Too many radio broadcasting stations today tend to create an evil, B. K. Proudfoot, radio expert, told members of the Uparatasa fraternity at the Y. M. C. A. last night. He discussed the different phases of radio broadcasting and radio reception.

The fraternity will hold an initiation on Thursday evening, Decem 12 at 8 o'clock. Members are to meet at the Y. M. C. A. A Ladies' Night party will be held in the form of a Christmas party in the Orr hall on Thursday, December 26.

Radio Operator Gives Thrills Of Lonely Life

Flashed First Message To World Of Rogers-Post Flying Tragedy

OUTPOST IS ABOVE THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 10. —A lonely life in Northern wastes isn't a dull life.

The thrills of life up near the top of the world at Point Barrow, Alaska, are being related to old friends of Master Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan, a native of Payson, Utah, since his arrival for a visit.

Morgan, a radio operator at the northern outpost far above the Arctic circle, flashed the first word of the tragic death of Wiley Post and Will Rogers to the world last August.

With him on his Utah visit were Mrs. Morgan and their two children Beverly, 12 and Barrow, 4, the latter the first white child born at Point Barrow.

Morgan, a veteran Army man, came to the United States a few weeks ago to enjoy a year's furlough after seven years in the Arctic. The Army maintains radio stations throughout Alaska and the Aleutian Islands. Others have even more remote posts than Morgan.

The real hero of the Arctic plane crash that wiped out Rogers and Post was an Eskimo, whose name Morgan said, had been misspelled in many accounts published in this country.

Clair Oakpeah was the 40 year old native, who ran a distance of 12 miles in two and a half hours to the Army station and told Morgan of the death of the beloved cowboy humorist and the world flier.

Mrs. Morgan, too, has had her thrills of the continent's farthest north settlement. Usually, her big thrill of the year is provided by the ship arriving at Point Barrow with supplies. This event over-shadows all others in the regular course of events.

A day in August, 1931, however, stands out in the memory of the Morgans above all the other long days and nights spent in the Arctic.

My greatest thrill," Morgan said, "came on that day."

"August is the only month at Point Barrow when the water isn't covered with ice. Out of the sky, like a lone goose, a plane came down and settled on a little lagoon in our front yard. Our family, eight other white people at the station, and the entire Eskimo colony of 300 cheered as we helped Colonel Lindbergh and Anne Lindbergh to the landing.

"We brought out the choicest cuts of caribou and some wild geese and the precious canned vegetables to make a feast.

"The Lindberghs stayed three days. It was light all the time and when they left, it seemed that a part of our colony had gone.

"Anne Lindbergh found an orange in the plane and gave it to my son Barrow, then five months old."

Mrs. Morgan also treasures memories of the historic visit of the Lindberghs to Point Barrow.

"Mrs. Lindbergh played with our baby and petted him, because, she said, he reminded her so much of her own child," Mrs. Morgan recalled.

A visit to Salt Lake City was filled with new experiences for Barrow, a true son of the Arctic, born on Dec. 17, in the darkest part of the polar night that lasts for four months each year.

"Does the cow carry milk cans?" he asked when his mother pointed out to him a cow beside the road.

Beverly was born at Fairbanks, Alaska, just below the Arctic circle. She has been educated in a school all by herself. She knows the answers from the school books but is distinctly not a product of mass education. Her last visit to Salt Lake City was when she was but five years old.

The ship that brings them their supplies once a year brings them everything they must have from the outside world except meat. Mrs. Morgan explained.

"For so many years I have had only one shopping day with no choice, that now I am going shopping every day," she said. "Much will be window shopping, but women will know that I have some fun in view after seven years away from any store."

Radio, Sergeant Morgan said, had brought the old home town much closer to residents of the far North.

"The Salt Lake radio broadcast comes in best, so sometimes we feel at home in the night that lasts for four months," he said. "We now have an electric generator, but until recently used gas lamps with the gas imported in tanks. We burn Utah coal."

Deep-Breathing As Heart Remedy

(International News Service)

MUNICH—Inhaling deeply three periods a day of five minutes each is recommended by Prof. A. Tirala, cardiac specialist as the most simple and efficient cure for high blood pressure.

The German professor has his patients inhale deeply as if they would burst their belts, and then exhale slowly. Most patients, he explained could not hold their breath for ten seconds when starting out. But after a short while they extended the exhalation to 30 or 40 seconds.

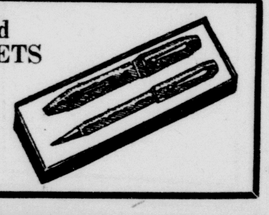

The lungs, he explains, are trained by his method to take more blood, and the capacity of the heart is also increased.

Mayor-Elect Adds Support To Campaign

Mayor-Elect McGrath Addresses Salvation Army Campaign Workers

Mayor-elect Charles E. McGrath, in addressing the Salvation Army campaign workers Monday night, said that he is behind the organization and endorsed its campaign for funds which has just been opened.

An appeal is being broadcast throughout the community for $2,500 needed to keep the doors of the local Salvation Army open during the ensuing year.

Donations are to be sent to the treasurer, John D. Kennedy, Salvation Army Appeal, the People's Bank of New Castle.

It has been pointed out that the federal government closed two transient camps that accommodated 900 transients on December 1. New Castle is the center of three railroads that run through and naturally transients would necessarily stop off trains for food, work, etc.

The Salvation Army last year gave 601 meals to transients and assisted 252 of them out of the city, giving overnight beds to 363 to keep them off the streets. New Castle has very poor facilities at the police station to care for these unfortunates. The Army can care for them; it is important that they be cared for lovingly and firmly with encouragement.

ITALIAN CHILDREN RUSH TO AID WITH POTS AND PANS

For their country

Italy's war chest will be kept filled, if these children have anything to say—and do—about it. When league sanctions threatened to cut off Italy's supplies, and when their elders gave gold, silver, wedding rings and the like, these children in Rome ransacked their homes with the result shown. Metal gadgets of all sorts, pots, pans and bars are being "handed over" to Italian soldiers.

Cases Of Cruelty To Children Grow

(International News Service)

LONDON—Stripped, strung up by a hook to the ceiling, and flogged by her father because she returned empty-handed after he had sent her out to steal.

Here is a tragic story worthy of the heart and pen of Charles Dickens. It is just one of the cases appearing frequently now in the British courts—dreadful blights on the country's childhood.

It's similar to many more of the 44,886 cases of brutal treatment or neglect of Britain's boys and girls—many of them babies—reported in this country last year.

It's just another of the cases of juvenile delinquency which help to make up the total of more than 40 per cent of England's criminals who are below the age of 21.

This story was told by the 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest James Archer, in a Liverpool court when the man and wife were arrainged on charges of receiving property stolen by their children, the girl and a son aged 12.

While an unusual case of savage treatment of helpless youngsters, it illustrates the type of tragic problem with which England society is struggling in order to save the future manhood and womanhood of this country.

The Archer girl testified that when she came home without the bananas she had been sent out to steal, her father took her and her brother down to the cellar.

Let her tell the bleak tale in her own childish accents:

"He told me to take all my clothes off, and I took everything off but my vest.

"He then tied my hands behind my back with a clothes line and passing the rope through a hook in the ceiling pulled me up until I was hanging there.

"Then he tied the rope to fix me and began hitting me with the leather belt my brother is wearing now.

"I was hanging in the air ten minutes while he beat me with the belt.

"When I screamed he said: "The more you scream, the more I will hit you."

The father and mother were sent up for trial, and the children placed in a juvenile home.

More common cases are such as these reported from the London office of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children:

"In one case it was reported that a school girl came home for her summer vacation and was forced to spend the greater part of the day in a backyard facing a brick wall, while another young child was kicked in the eye by her mother.

"Many cases are reported, too, of parents refusing to allow their deformed children to have medical treatment."

Experts here are in general agreement that the question of saving England's under-privileged children is linked with the problem of banishing misery, privation and hunger from English homes resulting from the last war. It is the spectre prodding British statesmen to head off another war in which England would be drawn.

Palestine Is Site For Peace Temple

(International News Service)

JERUSALEM—Temple of peace is to be erected on Mount Scopus, just outside the city of Jerusalem, to serve as a centre for all elements working for the ideal of peace.

The recently-formed world peace organization, with headquarters in Jerusalem, announces that it has acquired about eight acres near the Hebrew university grounds for this purpose.

The project, it is further stated, is in response to the propal of George Lansbury, British Laborite, to convoke representatives of every sect of Christianity and other religious thought in a conference in the Holy City and to call a "Truce of God."

Son Of Former Tammany Hall Head Near Death

Declares A.A.A. To Put Farmers On Auction Block

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The supreme court was told today by George Wharton Pepper, former U. S. senator, that it may put the farmer on the "auction block"—to be sold to the highest bidder—if the AAA is held constitutional.

Arguing against validity of the process tax in the Hoosac Mills case, he urged the high court to render a sweeping decision holding the entire AAA scheme unconstitutional.

Pepper asserted that while many sections of the country favor the AAA, it is extremely unpopular in other sections.

"If the local policy of the state in the matter of production is at war with that of the federal government, the court will be in the position of putting the farmer on the auction block—with the federal government bidding for compliance with a federal scheme and the state bidding for compliance with a local regulation, if this is valid," said Pepper.

"If it is going to be possible for the federal government to offer pecuniary rewards where the farmer cannot well decline, he sells his freedom for a mess of pottage."

Pepper asserted that the AAA plan is not voluntary. A farmer must accept rental benefits or he cannot compete with his neighbor, he said.

Ridiculing the AAA referendum on continuation of programs, he said that he could make a better showing by asking college students to vote on whether or not they favored continuation of allowances by fathers.

The court followed Pepper intently, no justice interrupted him in the early stages of his discussion to ask a question.

Walker May Get Coveted Post Now Held By Farley

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Frank C. Walker, director of the National Emergency Council, spent nearly half an hour with President Roosevelt today shortly following the latter's return and immediately speculation was renewed that Walker is about to succeed big Jim Farley as postmaster general.

It has been accepted generally that Farley would relinquish his cabinet post very soon in order to devote his whole time to managing the president's campaign for re-election. Walker's name invariably has been mentioned as his probable successor.

Walker would only say: "I did not hand in my resignation today. That is all I can say for publication."

Mexican Art To Be Shown

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 10.—An exhibition of Mexican art and handicraft, revealing the fusion of Indian and foreign elements in the art of Mexico, will be on exhibition at Westminster college in the commutors' room until Dec. 20.

The display is divided into two related sections, the first of which is made up of water-colors and prints of Mexico painted by two American artists, Alexander Trowbridge and Olin Dowes. Selected, arranged and circulated by the American Federation of Arts, of which Westminster college is a member, this part of the exihibit was shown at the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C., during January, 1935.

The second section of the exhibit is devoted to native Mexican handicraft, lacquered bowls, serapes or shawls, glass, tile and pottery, collected by Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, the man suggested by the late Dwight Morrow, former ambassador to Mexico, as best fitted to choose and collect the objects.

The exhibit was arranged by Professor Harold J. Brennan, head of the Department of Art.

These trees, willows, have been struck by lightning several times, and are being taken out as a part of the beautification program on the campus at Grove City College.

More Millions Go To France Despite Debts

Paris To Get Big University City From John D. Rockefeller

(International News Service)

PARIS,—Another John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gift, a huge international social center in the "university city of Paris, will be handed to French authorities early in November, it was announced by the sponsors today.

University city is a small town built on the outskirts of Paris, where the fortifications used to be. Students from numerous countries and provinces of France reside there, each building constructed according to the architecture of the nation or region represented.

It was also learned that Rockefeller's trip to Paris some months ago was to inspect the social center he was financing, and to raise the ante he was handing over by $1,000,000, making the gift for the building $200,000,000.

This, however is just one of the smaller presents made to France by Rockefeller, Jr. His philanthropies in France reach a staggering sum, and include the restoration of Versailles, playground of Marie Antoinette, Fontainebleau, where Napoleon lived for a time, and Rheims Cathedral which German big guns smashed to smithereens.

The restoration of Versailles cost $2,300,000. This is the work which has received most prominence, because Versailles next to Paris itself is the cynosure for touristic eyes. A famous French architect admitted that if Rockefellers had not contributed this sum, "the palace would have had to be closed," and American tourists would have been deprived of one of their favorite spots.

The Versailles reconstruction is now nearing completion after 10 years work. In all essential features the palace which Louis XIV built, and which was copied by the German emperor and the Russian czar at the time, has been restored to pre-revolutionary conditions.

Probably the most picturesque restoration was that of the playfield of Marie Antoinette, at the side of the palace, where she posed as milkmaid. The reconstruction was carried out with the minutest fidelity to detail after exhausive study of Marie Antoinette's correspondence, especially her mail to her sister, the Dutchess of Modena, in which she describes the aspects of her toy village.

In accordance with these indications the streets and gardens of the hamlet were redesigned and walls which the revolutionists had destroyed were rebuilt.

It was in this delightful toy village that Marie Antoinette fled from the formalities of palace life close by, and where she received that peculiar twist of country existence which led her to ask why the people did not eat cake if they had no bread. Her toy village was just such a cake-like spot, where titled milkmaids would munch cream tarts while churning butter.

Father Fights Tiger To Save His Sons

He Slays Fierce Beast With Only A Club As Weapon

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA—Pitting himself heroically against an infuriated tiger which had already struck down and mauled his two sons, a 56-year-old father in a village of Assam slew the beast with a stick as his only weapon.

The tiger sprang on the two sons as they were returning at sundown to their village, Nanniabhasa, Assam, after a day's work. They were severely mauled and collapsed.

Hearing the cries, Laduran, the father, who was working nearby, seized the only weapon handy, a thick stick, and rushed to the rescue.

Closing with the infuriated animal, the father though suffering severely himself from the tiger's attacks, succeeded in killing it with the aid of his stick.

Villagers later found both father and sons lying unconscious beside the dead tiger. All three are now recovering.

Who Took Picture From Court House?

Mysterious Disappearance Of Picture Of Proposed New Court House

Mysterious disappearance of a picture of the proposed new court house from the front office of the county commissioners, is causing considerable speculation at the court house. The picture was given to Register of Graves, Thomas Edmunds by Lauren Thayer. Mr. Edmonds had it framed and hung it in the office of the county commissioners in the room which Edmonds now occupies as Permanent Registration Clerk and Register of Graves.

The picture hung on the west wall between two windows. When Edmunds came to work yesterday the picture was missing. He thought somebody was trying to play a joke, but later found that nobody around the court house could explain the picture's disappearance.

County Commissioner Franklin R. Woods remembered seeing the picture on last Friday. County Commissioner Conners was not certain when he had last seen it. County commissioner P. O. Elder had ben off ill for several days and says the picture was there when he left. Edmunds says that when he locked up the office at 12:15 last Saturday, the picture was hanging on the wall.

What has become of it and why would anybody take it from the office? And how did any one get into the office? The only persons who have keys are the county commissioners, Edmunds and Janitor Clifford James. None of them know anything about it.

The case will be placed in the hands of Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard and County Detective Sharp Leslie.

HIGHER PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10.—Cash income from agricultural production in Pennsylvania for the first nine months of 1935, has been estimated at $155,587,000, by the Federal Bureau of Agricultural Economics, J. Hansell French, Secretary of Agriculture, said today.

This represents an increase of $17,727,000 or 13 per cent, over the total of $137,860,000 for the corresponding period in 1934. These estimates do not include receipts from the sale of nursery and greenhouse products which represent about 8 per cent of the cash income from agricultural production in the state.

May Set Off Scandal

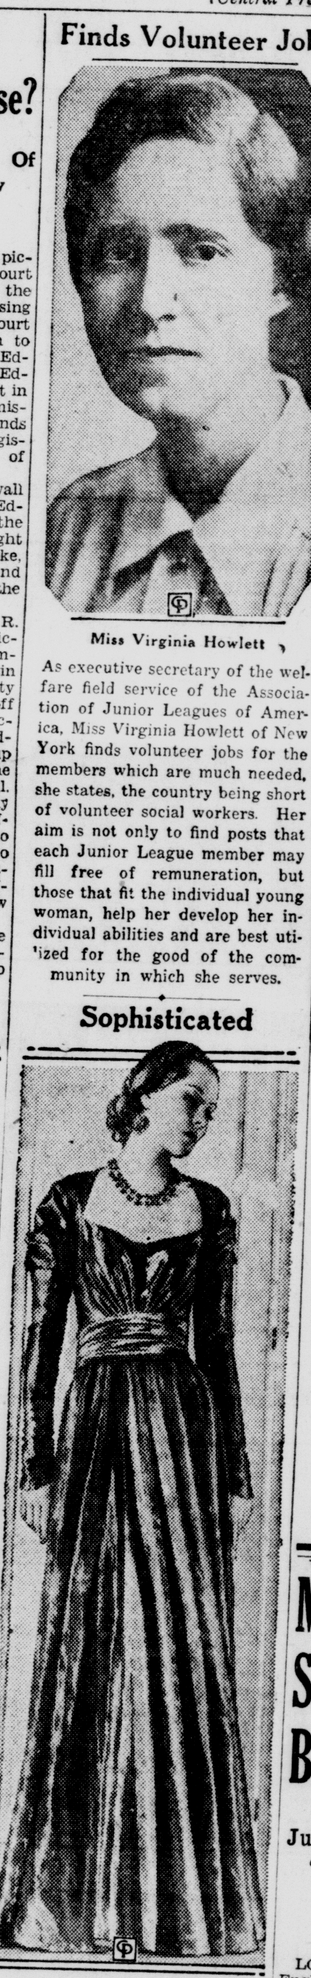

Meyer Luckman, 58, is behind bars again as suspect in murder of Samuel Druckman, gangster, as Brooklyn district attorney reopens case which was election issue and now threatens to blow off lid of New York politics as thoroughly as celebrated Rosenthal-Becker case of years ago. Bribes totaling $175,000 are alleged to have been offered to purchase immunity for slayers, and case was once marked "closed." (Central Press)

Finds Volunteer Jobs

Miss Virginia Howlett

As executive secretary of the welfare field service of the Association of Junior Leagues of America, Miss Virginia Howlett of New York finds volunteer jobs for the members which are much needed, she states, the country being short of volunteer social workers. Her aim is not only to find posts that each Junior League member may fill free of remuneration, but those that fit the individual young woman, help her develop her individual abilities and are best utilized for the good of the community in which she serves.

Sophisticated

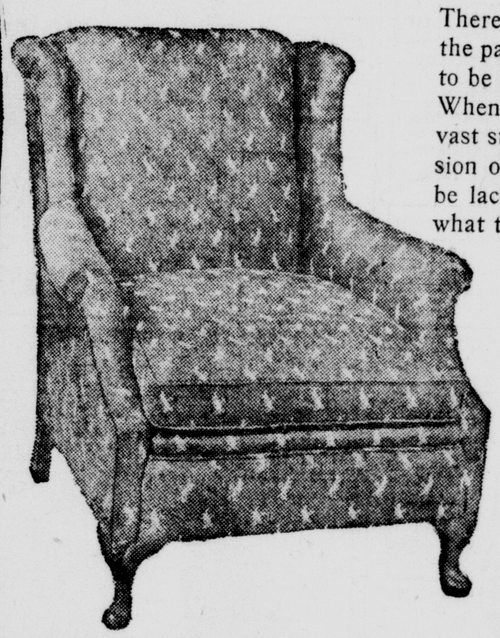

Sophistication is the keynote of this evening ensemble worn by Princess Natalie Paley, wife of Lucien Lelong, noted Paris dress designer The material is a new metal moire interwoven with horizontal purple, creating a changeable effect. Fullness in both skirt and bodice is drawn to the center front. With this costume Princess Paley wears a tiny lame hat trimmed with purple braid.

It seems that modern statesmen can't tell a lie, either. The correct name for it is an "official denial."

Married Men Are Safe From Heart Balm In Britain

Judge Rules Out Suit Of "Other Woman" Seeking Gold

(International News Service)

LONDON—A married man in England is safe from breach of promise action even if he has been granted a preliminary divorce decree.

The Court of Appeal has so decreed, upholding a decision of a lower court.

Miss Emily Fender, pretty 27-year-old brunette, a former nurse, brought a breach of promise action against Sir Anthony St. John-Mildmay.

Sir Anthony admitted he had made the promise to marry the plaintiff.

Miss Fender was awarded $10,000 by a jury in the King's Bench Division.

Justice Hawke overruled the award, declaring he could not sustain a promise of marriage made between the date of a decree nisi and the date when the decree was to be made absolute.

Asserting such a promise was contrary to public policy, the Justice pointed out it was possible for the wife of Sir Anthony to change her mind and appeal to her husband on behalf of their child for a reconciliation.

The Court of Appeal received the case and upheld the decision of Justice Hawke.

Permission was granted for Miss Fender to appeal to the House of Lords, the Supreme Court of the land. She announced she would probably take this step.

"However, money could not give me back what I have lost," she said. "I am trying my best to forget my blighted romance.

"I have no bitterness against Sir Anthony and imagine I shall never see or hear of him again.

"Our association began in 1931 when I was nursing him after a hunting accident. Very soon I found that I loved him. Now, I must forget."

Four Special Prosecutors Seek Money

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Four special prosecutors who acted for the commonwealth against Joseph Bruno and his six kinsmen in the Kelayres election eve "massacre" trial today awaited a court decision in their suit to collect more than $28,000 in legal fees and expenses.

The attorneys, Albert Thomas, Meadville; James J. Gallagher, Mahanoy City, and George H. Rowley and M. S. Dipierro, undertook court action after their bills for services were refused payment by Schuylkill County Controller Ray D. Leidick.

The Brunos, convicted on various charges in connection with the slaying of five Democratic marchers on election eve, 1934, are awaiting sentence in Schuylkill county.

Untaxed Liquor Drive Planned

Persons Found With Untaxed Liquor Will Be Severely Punished

(International News Service)

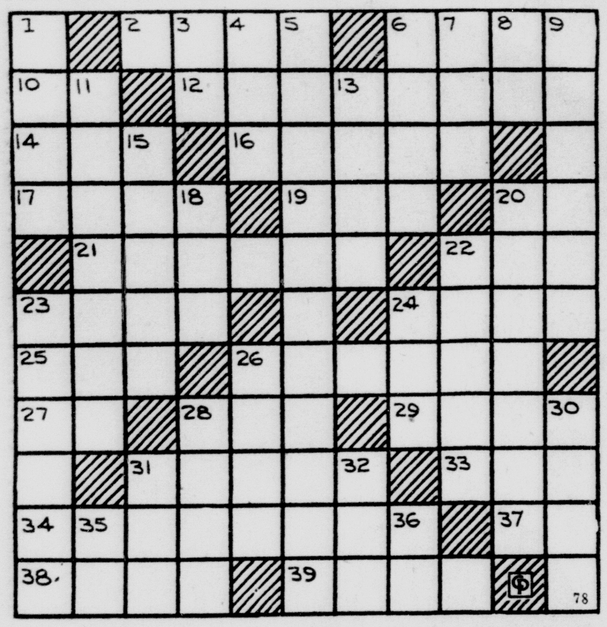

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10—Convicted bootleggers, manufacturers and purveyors of synthetic alcoholic beverages and all persons found in possession of untaxed liquor will be the objects of a new tax drive, Secretary of Revenue Harry E. Kalodner revealed today.

They will be prosecuted, taxed and fined under the provisions of the spiritous and vinous liquor tax act, in line with the department's double campaign of making tax collections from every source where taxes are due the state and of enforcing the beverage act of 1935.

Investigators operating in the southwestern part of the state have collected about $12,200 in fines and penalties from violators of the act since the beginning of the biennium, Kalodner said. It was anticipated renewal of the drive would net the general fund of the state more than $50,000 annually.

WORRY WILL DAMAGE BODY AND SOUL

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa. Dec. 10—Worrying will damage not only the body but also the soul.

Doctors vouch that worry impairs the intellectual part of the body's functions but there is a new authority, Evangelist Flowers, for the claim that is also a spiritual defect.

"A Christian has no business to worry, for worry is sin," Dr. Flowers preached in a sermon here.

BRILLIANT, BRILLIANT!

The ambitious young applicant for a civil service post was taking his examinations. All came out all right, for him until he came to the general knowledge test.

This puzzled him for a while, but at last he thought of a way out of the difficulty.

"Give the quantity of coal exported from U. S. A. in any stated year" read the question.

With a sigh of relief he put down his answer: "In 1492, none."

Smith Named By Junior Chamber

Will Be 1936 President; Judge-elect Braham Evening's Speaker

Herbert Smith was elected president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for 1936 when the membership held its annual election at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

He will succeed Donald D. Young president since the civic organization was founded in February of this year.

Mr. Smith, district representative here for the Burroughs Adding Machine company and prominent in Westminster college circles several years ago, will take office in January with the following who were chosen by acclamation when the nominating committee presented its formal slate:

Vice president, Charles Adams; secretary, John O. Huston; treasurer, Dean M. Staley and members of board of directors A. Pearson Furst, A. Leland Houk, Clarence Brown, Gus Sanfillippo, A. Bruce Ewing and the retiring president, D. D. Young.

New Judge Speaker

Defeat" any "defeatist attitude you happen on was, in effect, the challenge Judge-elect W. Walter Braham, the junior's guest speaker of the evening, presented to the members in his scholarly and interesting talk.

He recalled early New Castle and compared the city at the present with other times in its history when it has been challenged. He charged the organization with the responsibility, normal to all of seeing to it that the city does progress.

Mr. Braham devoted part of his messages to the individual's problems and called upon all to "succeed in your own particular fields of endeavor, to give of your best toward your job."

Attorney James E. Chambers of the chamber presented Mr. Braham.

A group of new members were present for last night's session of the organization. A membership drive is now in progress.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Even as You and I: Elinor Glyn is writing her memoirs—on lavender paper, on a lavender typewriter, in a lavender negligee. . . Major Edward Bowers, the Capitol Theater and radio amateur magnifico, has an estate at Ossining, N. Y., where he collects Oriental servants as you or I might collect stamps....Ed Anthony once wrote a book called "How to Get Rid of a Woman" and when he left on his honeymoon he found 24 copies of the tome piled in his train compartment....He sleeps with a notebook under his pillow, in which he jots down vagrant thoughts when insomnia attacks....

Gene Tunney dines nearly every night when in Manhattan at a little restaurant called Christ Cella's in 45th St....Christopher Morley is to be glimpsed as a rule in the same eatery—where they have that sign on the wall: "Alterations Going On As Usual During Business."....Incidentally, Tunney has never been on a diet, yet he weighs no more now than when he was heavyweight champion of the world....

Margo, one of the more beautiful of the dramatic discoveries of this season, is 18 and under the stern supervision of a Spanish uncle who makes her go to bed every night by midnight—after rushing home from the theater....The uncle is Xavier Cugat, the bandmaster.....Barbara Hutton Reventlow putters about the house in Chinese pajamas and is remarkable among the current crop of rich gals for being completely unathletic; she doesn't like to ride, dance or swim....She writes poetry every night for an hour....Carl Anderson, who draws "Henry," is a professional carpenter at heart who would rather sell a portable school desk for children to carry to school folded under their arms than be the greatest comic artist alive....He invented the gadget years ago and is still peddling it....George McManus always works at his drawing board with windows closed and door open on the corridor and is amazed that he is the constant target of earbenders and panhandlers....Once a week he goes to night court and once a week to the Planetarium....

Jack Dempsey never chewed tobacco until he was 39....He didn't know you were supposed to spit, and quit immediately because he got sick....Mrs. F. D. The lottery craze is sweeping the night clubs and many of them have weekly drawings for bottles of champagne....But down in the Village Russell Patterson has installed a showcase of puppets in bizarre attitudes and a magnum of fuzzwater is donated for the brightest caption each week....The greatest trouble is that the exhibition is in the bar and most of the suggestions are too racy for repetition....Incredible item: Mae West has never weighed more than 110 pounds and her height is 5' 2"; yet most folks would swear that she's extremely buxom....

The most successful personality lecturing to the women's club circuit is Rear Admiral R. E. On Court House Hill

County Commissioner P. O. Elder, who has been confined to his house by illness for the past few days, is able to be at his desk again.

All but one of the aldermen and justices of the peace who were chosen at the November election have notified Prothonotary R. M. Campbell that they will accept office. The law provides that they must accept within thirty days from the election. The prothonotary then certifies such elections to the secretary of the commonwealth, who issues certificates of election which at the office of the register and recorder within sixty days, of the election or the office will be declared vacant.

Fifty-one instruments of all kinds were entered at the register and recorder's office during the past week. Of this number twenty-two were deeds and twelve were mortgages. Most of the mortgages which are now being recorded are to building and loan associations. Practically all of the loans made by the Home Owners Loan Corporation out of the last allotment of money. have been made and the mortgages recorded:

As complete returns from last month's local option elections become available, it is evident that Prohibition is still an issue in Pennsylvania. The returns, combined with the claims of wet and dry leaders, strongly indicate that the next year or two will determine whether the state will slip definitely into one column or the other. There were no local option issues voted on in Lawrence County at the recent election, but there are a number of townships and boroughs in which elections have been previously held. Recent election figures compiled at Harrisburg show that there were "wet" majorities in 158 districts throughout the state whose total population in 450,667 and "dry" victories in 204 districts with a population of 250,047. Political leaders are drawing three general conclusions from the November results. First they concede that the rural sections of the state are inherently dry, and are not likely to be stampeded from their traditional stand on Prohibition. Second, they are equally certain that the cities and the larger boroughs are not being weaned away from the conviction that the legally controlled sale of liquor is the most effective way of wiping out bootlegging. Third, taking into consideration the city-county split, enforcement of existing laws will determine the ultimate position of Pennsylvania on the reviving prohibition question.

Attorneys report that mortgage money is now much more plentiful than it has been for the past five years. The main trouble now seems to be to get the money placed on the right kind of security. There has been considerable of a re-adjustment in real estate values during the period named, so that it is not now possible to secure mortgages on the old valuations.

Owners of the money which is now available insist that conservative values be placed on properties upon which it is to be loaned, and further that there be evidence that the borrower has the ability to pay. The latter is one of the principal requirements of the government in making the recent housing loans. It is recognized that the man with a job, with prospects of Steady work, is a much better risk than one whose employment is uncertain. Ability to pay goes a long way in securing a loan from any source at present.

As further evidence that the money situation is loosening up it may be stated that the building and loan associations and local banks, are now looking for good loans. As the local real estate market has been at something of a standstill on account of the tightness of money, it is believed that the present situation will work to its advantage and that the coming spring will witness considerably more activity in the real estate line than there has been for several years. Astute prospective home owners are taking cognizance of present prospects, and are already looking around for properties while they can still be had at reasonable prices. There has been practically no building here for the past five years, a condition which is being manifested in a shortage of houses. Habitable small houses are all occupied, and there are very few of any size available.

Industrial Conference Near Inglorious Finish

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The administration's ambitious industrial conference veered toward an inglorious finish today as officials worked desperately to prevent a wholesale walk-out by business representatives.

Despite entreaties of industry Co-ordinator George L. Berry that the assembled management and labor spokesmen sit down to discuss possible solutions of pressing economic problems, hundreds of delegates bolted the conference shortly after its stormy opening session.

A large number of industrial groups withdrew from further participation immediately after Berry and A. P. Haake, Chicago furniture industry delegate, nearly came to blows over the latter's demand that the conference depose the co-ordinator as chairman. Haake's demand, shouted from the conference floor, precipitated a riotous climax to yesterday's meeting.

Bitterly upbraiding critics for seeking to obstruct the President's efforts to stabilize industry, Berry branded attempts to depose him as the "tactics of communists".

"The tactics pursued were those normally taken by obstructionists to progress whom some people commonly characterize as communists", he asserted. "It presents a sorry spectacle when industry members adopt soap-box tactics."

Deny Disruption Plans

Leading the parade of deserting delegates, John W. O'Leary, president of the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, denied administration foes had planned to disorganize the conference through a pre-arranged plan.

O'Leary, a former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, had been nominated by Haake to lead a permanent industrial council.

"Those who were in charge of the proceedings seemingly feared to test the sentiment for the proposal to creat a permanent council," he declared. . . "Seaking for myself and those of my industry whom I represent, I could not accept such a procedure."

A number of industrial groups found it impossible to harmonize divergent views of their members and thereupon notified Berry of their withdrawal.

Only the labor delegates, headed by William Green of the A. F. and L., openly pledged united support to Berry.

"We want to co-operate with the President and the co-ordinator in his effort to relieve unemployment and promote the general welfare of this country," said Green.

He urged the delegates of the various trade unions to work for approval of the bill of Senator O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming, which calls for licensing of corporations, collective bargaining and unhampered labor organizing.

PRISONER'S RUSE TO FOOL POLICE FOILED

(International News Service)

MELBOURNE, Dec. 10.—While police of three Australian states sought Walter Anderson he was hidden in the police station at Mildura, Victoria. Anderson escaped from the cells at the station. Police of Victoria, New South Wales and Tasmania began an armed search. But next morning, an alert policeman at Mildura noticed fingerprints near the trapdoor in the ceiling. Investigation revealed Anderson crouched among the ceiling rafters—over the very noses of the police.

Dry Sentiment Is On Increase

Spread Of Prohibition Talk Is Causing Politicians Additional Concern

COME-BACK IS BEING STAGED

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The average politician views with horror the prospect of prohibition's resurrection.

There are exceptions.

Statesmen from unmistakably wet constituencies see chances of capitalizing a renewal of the dry threat to their own advantage. Those from unmistakably dry bailiwicks still more decidedly welcome indications of a revival of the old slogan's popularity. Repeal left them for awhile with "nowhere to go". Now they begin to think that they glimpse a destination again. Even if they never arrived at it a second time, the vision at least is something to fight toward—and be re-elected on by doing so.

But the average?

Suspicion is awakening in the average public man's breast that sentiment among his home folk is more doubtful than he thought it was. And, very recently, he has been arriving at the conclusion that this doubtfulness is increasing.

DRYS ALARM

The drys, in short, have alarmed the average lawmaker by the vigor of their "come-back" at their late gathering in St. Louis.

Not that he considers national prohibition likely to be re-voted in a hurry.

What terrifies him is the danger of a long period of uncertainty (growing uncertainty), as between the dates of the 18th constitutional amendment's submission and repeal

ANOTHER DOUBT

Politicians recognize that national prohibition was enacted at a juncture of wartime hysteria.

It took them years to realize that it WAS hysteria.

Now they are starting to wonder whether it wasn't repealed at juncture of depression hysteria.

Wetness gained ground during the dry era.

Hasn't a dry wave set in with repeal?

If so, the whole situation is jumbled up again.

A FEDERAL ISSUE?

Honest politicians (some of them are honest) never did regard the wet-and-dry question as one for the federal government to deal with.

They were interested in such issues as the tariff, states versus federal rights, taxation, miscellaneous economics, national defense. These were subjects on which they felt that they could talk sense, argue, make converts. But they realized, during prohibition days, that they had to stand or fall on the strength of their wet or dry professions—not convictions.

Any number of wets had to run as drys, to be elected.

A few of them had the nerve to say so. For example, Senator Cole L. Blease of South Carolina always voted in congress as a dry, but vociferously proclaimed that he was a wet—who had to vote as a dry to be elected. He said that it was more important to him to be re-elected than to uphold wet standards. At that, he was beaten as a wet in 1930, although he always had cast his vote dryly.

DRY CANDIDATES

In 1932, however, the popular flop seemed to be almost complete.

Anyway, congress so interpreted it, and acted accordingly.

The vast majority of the country appeared to be exceedingly glad of it.

Yet today there manifestly is a formidable recrudescence of prohibition sentiment.

It will be quite pronounced if such a candidate as William E. Borah or Alf M. Landon is nominated on the Republican ticket for president.

Either one will get the dry vote, regardless of all else, for the White House.

Parenthetically, President Roosevelt has been a dry in his day, too—when it served his purpose.

NEW CASTLE AND ELLWOOD TO PLAY IN 1936

Arrange Battle On Thanksgiving In New Castle

Athletic Council Will Ratify Negotiations Is Belief Here

Conference Monday Irons Out Difficulties, May Play In Ellwood

New Castle High School "Red Hurricane" football team will meet the Blue and White of Ellwood City High at Taggart Stadium on next Thanksgiving Day, it was announced here today by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner. The two teams will resume relations after a year's separation.

A conference was held at New Castle High at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon with the following men present, representing New Castle, Principal Frank L. Orth, Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Athletic Council members, "Dyke" Blair, A. C. Hyde and Joe McFate.

Coach Denny Schill and Superintendent of Ellwood City Schools Vaughn R. DeLong were in the Ellwood City corner.

Await Ratification.

All that remains is the formal ratification by the athletic council at New Castle high and this is just a formality, according to those on the inside. There is little likelihood of the proposition being turned down.

Ellwood City has agreed to play here on Thanksgiving Day in 1936, and would like to have New Castle play in Ellwood City in 1937, but not a Thanksgiving Day game.

A proposition like this was put up to the Ellwood City men: Bring the New Castle - Ellwood City Thanksgiving Day game to New Castle Taggart stadium and Ellwood City would become the home team. That is, Ellwood City would be using the New Castle stadium as their home field and would collect the revenue. Not a bad idea at that, boys, it deserves a big hand.

Popular Idea.

With the two towns so close together the idea would be a very popular one. Taggart stadium will seat more than the field at Ellwood City. As far as the playing field itself is concerned Ellwood City does not have to take a back seat to any field in this part of the country. The seating arragements are the only drawback.

Ellwood City played New Castle here in 1934 and held the "Red Hurricanes" to a 7 to 0 score, in a tough engagement. This year the two teams did not meet, but "Denny" Schill had a crackerjack eleven at Ellwood City and one that would have given New Castle a tough afternoon if they could have been brought together.

The announcement today will no doubt be greeted with loud hurrahs from the football fans in both towns. There is nothing quite like a New Castle-Ellwood contest no matter what it is. Should both teams go undefeated next year up until the Turkey Day game, the crowd will just about bust the concrete sides at Taggart stadium.

It would not be amiss to make this the New Castle-Ellwood City game an annual Thanksgiving Day affair through years and years to come.

A panopticon is a circular prison in which the cells and their occupants are constantly visible to guards stationed in a central tower.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

For the third straight year the Chicago Bears were the Professional Football league's leading ground-gainers and point scorers. The Bears gained 3,417 yards and scored 192 points to beat out Green Bay for ground gaining honors and Detroit for the point scoring title.

Primo Carnera, former heavy-weight champion scored a technical knockout over Big Boy Brackey of Buffalo in the fourth round of a bout listed for 10 rounds at Buffalo last night. After Brackey had been floored in the fourth his handlers threw in the towel.

Catcher Bob O'Farrell who helped the St. Louis Cardinals win a flag in 1926, and managed the team in 1927, then was given an assignment as third string catcher, has been given his unconditional release by Manager Branch Rickey.

Eddie Babe Risko, world's middle-weight champion outboxed Frankie Battaglia of Canada in a 10 round bout last night at Philadelphia and in another bout in the same ring Johnny Duca of New Jersey outpointed Jimmy Smith of Philadelphia in eight rounds.

Union Battles Mt. Jackson In League Tonight

Union High Floor Will Be Scene Of Opening County Floor League

Union high school basketball team will pry off the 1935-36 Lawrence county high school basketball lid tonight with the strong Mt. Jackson high team. The game will be played at the Union high gym floor. The girls of the two schools will play the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock.

Strong Lineups

Coaches Boyd and Rudolph will have the Union High Blue and White clad basketeers in the best of shape for the opening gong. After several weeks of practice the coaches have practically agreed on the starting Union high lineup as follows: Davies and Ostrosky at the forwards, Stevenson at center, and Annerella and Wotowitz at the guards. Pattison is sure to break into the game at any time.

Coach Spears will have the following men in the lineup for Mt. Jackson: Thompson and Macaluso at the forwards, with Snyder at center and Gleghorn and Davis or McConrell at the guards.

There is considerable interest attached to this game tonight and coaches from the entire county will no doubt be on hand to see what Union and Mt. Jackson look like this year.

Heavy Schedule In Church League

Seven Games Carded This Week In Church AA League At The "Y"

Seven games will be played this week in the Church AA basketball league at the Y. M. C. A. floor according to an announcement from Henry MacNicholas today.

Three games will be played Wednesday night as follows:

Tifereth Israel AA vs. St. Michaels.

First Christians vs. Sacred Hearts.

Central Christians vs. First Baptists.

Three more games are on the program for Friday night as follows:

St. Nicholas vs. St. Michaels.

Central Christians vs. Sacred Hearts.

Saturday night the game will be: St. Nicholas vs. Epworth M. E.

K. Pulaski To Battle Farrell Team Tonight

K. Pulaski basketball team will battle the St. Michaels of Farrell tonight at the K. Pulaski floor in Oakland. This will be the opening game of the year for the Pulaski team, according to Manager Bill Ryczaj. There will be a reserve game at 7 o'clock.

The St. Michaels of Farrell is one of the strongest semi-pro teams in Mercer county and will give the Pulaski boys more than a tough opening game, in fact, the St. Mikes are just a little too fast for a warm-up engagement. The Pulaski boys have a stronger team this year and will be out to better the fine record that they made last year in their first year as hardwood court competitors.

Thursday the Pulaskis will play the Catholic A. C. of New Castle at Pulaski floor, and next Sunday afternoon will meet the fast Castleton quintet at Pulaski floor at 2:30 o'clock.

Season For Male Deer Nears End

Regular Buck Season Will Close Wednesday Followed By Anterless Season

Only one more day of the buck deer season remains for this year, coming to a close Wednesday evening. The buck season will be succeeded by three days for antlerless deer, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Antlerless deer may be hunted only in Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Forest, Lycoming, McKean, Pike, Potter, Sullivan, Tioga and Warren counties, the State Game Commission states.

A number of local hunters who failed to get bucks are planning to finish the season seeking a doe.

High Floormen Await Opening Gong Thursday

New Castle high "Red Hurricane" basketball team awaits the opening gong Thursday night at George Washington junior high floor against Sharpsville. The reserves of the two schools will play the preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock.

Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh gave the boys the once over Monday afternoon for the first time this year and pronounced them ready for the kickoff. Ralph H. Gardner, the faculty manager, was doubling as a floor mentor while Bridenbaught was resting after the strenuous grid campaign, and the "old boy" has the New Castle team looking pretty good.

Three Regulars.

Johnnie Carik, Harry "Kaiser" Toscano and Covelli are the leftovers from the first team last year, and it is a safe bet that these three boys will be in the lineup against Sharpsville.

Johnnie Cabas, Dom DeCaprio, Nocera and Eddie Ostrosky are likely varsity replacements. Others who will see action are Ryglinski, Dutkin, Strasbaugh, Grommes, Adams and Small.

Sharpsville high will bring a big fast team to New Castle. The Mercer county champions of last year are back this year with another crackerjack team.

Westminster To Play Tonight

Will Meet Akron Team In Game On New Wilmington Floor

(Special to The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—Meeting the Akron Goodyears tonight at 8:15 on the New Wilmington floor, the Westminster Titans face their first real test of the present season, after easily disposing of the Wooster Scots Saturday night 44-16.

Although the teams have met several times before in pre-season games, this is the Goodyears first contest on the Titan court. Of the four games played, Westminster has won three. The Goodyears hope to be the fourth team in nine years to beat the Titans on their home floor.

Composed of former collegiate stars, the Akron quintet is recognized as on a par with the best college teams. Last year, both Pitt and Westminster nosed them out by close scores. Harry "Bud" Brownlee, former star Titan center, is a member of the Goodyears.

Coach John Lawther's starting lineup will be the same as against the Wooster Scots: Andy Demo and Jack Willits, forwards; Bennett, center; Krivosh and Hunneke, guards. Tonight's game will test Demo's ability to measure up to varsity caliber. If he shows up as well as against Wooster, Lawther's worries for a strong starting five will be over. At present, however, reserve material is shy in the Titan squad.

Bennett, dropping in his 800th basket of his college career in the Wooster game, will have only 200 to go to 1,000 baskets and possibly a collegiate record in scoring.

Twenty Two In Bessemer Squad

Only Two Lettermen Remain From Last Season's Team

MEET EAST BROOK IN OPENING GAME

BESSEMER, Dec. 10—Coach J. H. Fredericks, of Bessemer high basketball team has been drilling his squad of 22 basketeers for a week and indications are that the team which he will send against East Brook High at East Brook, December 20, will be selected from the following: Poushey, Marshall, Olson, Grimes, Kursel, Young, DeArment, Zornich, Alderaro, Williams, Guylitto and Pezzuto.

Althought the team does not possess the size of last year's players they appear to be better ball handlers. They have considerable speed and while no titular hopes are being entertained Coach Fredericks believes that the team will prove troublesome to the leaders.

Marshall and Poushey are letter men from last season's squad. The balance of the squad has been seasoned only through practice tilts and by the time the season actually gets under way will have participated in additional games with reserves.

The schedule for Bessemer follows:

December 20, at East Brook; January 3, at Wampum; January 7, at Mt. Jackson; January 10, at New Wilmington; Jan. 18, at Lowellville; January 24, at Union; January 28, at East Brook; January 31, at Shenango; February 7, at Mt. Jackson; February 11, at Wampum; February 15 at Springfield, February 21, at New Wilmington; February 28, at Union and March 3, at Shenango.

The Reserves schedule follows: January 3, at George Washington; January 10, at George Washington; January 24, at Ben Franklin and February 7, at Ben Franklin.

Sport Brevities Along Broadway

Claim Eastern College Basketball Teams Are Using Pro Players

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Along Broadway today we hear many of our eastern college basketball teams are cluttered up with pros.

Some lads represent their college one night . . . and a pro team the next night . . .One lad plays with so many different teams he sometimes forgets what Jersey to use. . . The other night he showed up with the wrong jersey but played just the same.

What this country needs is a universal definition of the word amateur . . . In polo it means one thing. . . . In golf, tennis, baseball and football it means something else . . . And that reminds me . . . How many lads are having their way paid through college by major league ball clubs . . . plenty.

Berwanger Gets Trophy

Jay Berwanger, the football sensation of the midway, gets a trophy here today . . . for being voted the best footballer east of the Mississippi . . . That's covering a lot of territory . . . but at that we can't name a better player off hand.

And Lee Ramage, who was doing all right for himself until he met up with Joe Louis a couple of times, is now selling fruit and vegetables in his own market at San Diego.

Mike (20th Century) Jacobs, vehemently denies he intends to match Danno O'Mahoney, the Irish rassler, with Joe Louis . . . in fact, Mike says he's willing to promote almost anything from a flea circus to grand opera, but he draws the line at rassling.

Mike predicts a sell-out for the Louis-Paolino fight . . . despite the fact there is absolutely no betting on Paolino at any price.

Mike, who wouldn't know a finesse from a grand slam, is surprised at the assured success of the bridge match he's promoting . . . between the American four aces and the French champions . . . Mike took the writer aside today to ask what all this no trump business is he hears the boys talking about.

Mike says Paolino is one of two millionaire fighters he knows. . . . The other being Gene Tunney.

Czar For Boxing Would Be Set Up

Would Have Man Like Judge Landis Rule Over Boxing World

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 10.—A czar for fistiana.

That was what Edward C. Foster, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, proposed today.

Seeking a remedy for abuses in the prize ring, Secretary Foster visualized a court of last appeal for boxing comparable to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis in baseball.

"It would seem to me," he said, "that the time is opportune, if boxing is to retain the foothold that it has gained this past year, for some man to be appointed as a sort of court of last appeal.

"My reason for making this statement is due to the fact that boxing commissions themselves have been guilty, along with certain promoters and matchmakers, of allowing matches to be held which never should have been made."

Take Waterfowl Census At Refuge In Pymatuning Dam

Game Commission Observers Discover Fourteen Different Species In Refuge

Fourteen different species of ducks were found in the new Pymatuning game refuge at a census taken October 17 by the State Game Commission with the approval of the Ohio Game Commission.

The majority of ducks were of three species, black duck, baldpate and mallard. In addition, however, there were blue-winged teals, pintails, wood ducks, ruddy ducks, shovellers, green-winged teals, redheads, gadwalls, lesser scaup, ringneck, golden-eye and 527 which were unidentified.

The total number of ducks estimated was 7,511. In addition, there were 2,479 coots, 91 Canada geese, and 44 pied-billed grebes.

Another survey is to be made during the Christmas season, which census is expected to show a smaller population, made up of entirely different species.

Giants Trade Four Players For Whitehead

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The New York Giants today announced they had acquired Burgess Whitehead, Cardinal infielder, from St. Louis in a straight player trade in which they parted with Leroy Parmelee and Allyn Stout, pitchers; Phil Weintraub, outfielder, and Al Cuccinello, second baseman.

Announcement of the trade supplied the answer to the secret deal concocted between the Giants and Cardinals at Dayton last month.

Mustangs Rated Best In Nation

Southern Methodist Will Be Awarded Rockne Trophy Cup

(International News Service)

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 10.—Southern Methodist University, Rose Bowl opponent of Stanford New Year's Day, will be awarded the Knute K. Rockne national intercollegiate football trophy, it was announced today.

Southern Methodist was ranked first among the nation's football teams in the 1935 Dickinson national football ratings, released last night by Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois.

Minnesota and Princeton were ranked second and third respectively.

Professor Comments

Commenting on the Mustangs' ranking over Minnesota, Prof. Dickinson declared today:

"This is the first year the award has not gone to the leading team in the best section or conference. This is due to the fact that the superiority of the Big Ten was much smaller than I had expected and the fact Minnesota did not defeat a first division Big Ten team, as there was none. The Big Ten had a fairly good intersectional record, but was defeated frequently by non-conference teams. Minnesota's record included no victories as important as S. M. U.'s over Texas Christian and U. C. L. A."

Louisiana State further advanced the cause of southern football by ranking fourth.

"It is significant," Prof. Dickinson said, "that Southwestern Conference teams lost only four games, of which Louisiana State won two."

Polish Falcons Trim Keystones

Polish Falcons basketball team with Joe Sniezek the big star with seven points defeated the Keystone A. C. 26 to 21 at the Falcon floor. Best for the Keys was Joe Kelly with 10 of the points.

At the end of the first half the Falcons and Keys were deadlocked at 10-10. It was the second half attack led by Sniezek and Kawa that gave the Falcons their victory.

The summary:

He Lived To Tell The Tale

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Bearing a gashed right ear as a reminder of his experiences during the Italian-Ethiopian War of 1895-97, Louis Carnaghi, 63 year old survivor of the Italian massacre at Aduwa, in his St. Louis home today is an interested follower of the present African conflict.

Then a captain in his early twenties, Carnaghi and 16 of his men were seized by the Ethiopians and held captives for a year. As they were moved constantly about the country, the veteran has a good knowledge of the terrain over which the war is being waged now.

"It is a very bad country, with steep hills, and deep valleys," he said. 'Building roads will take years."

Carnaghi's ear was knicked by an African warrior. However, his treatment at the hands of his captors was not bad, he said.

Big Safety Rally Held At Shelby

Nearly 600 Hear Fred L. Rentz And Michael P. O'Grady Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 10.—Nearly 600 people participated in the big safety rally at the Shelby auditorium on Monday evening, which was sponsored by the Foremen's club of the local tube plant. An excellent program featured the occasion.

Paul Flautz, president of the club, presided at this time and introduced C. E. Sankey, superintendent of safety in the plant, who was in charge of the program and introduced the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker was Fred L. Rentz, president of The New Castle News Co., whom Mr. Sankey introduced as his lifelong friend and the next congressman from this district. After speaking humorously for a while, Mr. Rentz delivered a talk on "Highway Safety." He told of the building of the roads in this district and of the many improvements in their construction. He clearly pointed out how they act towards the development of a community. These roads are being abused by the modern automobile drivers and he stressed the importance of the enforcement of highway laws. A move is on at the present to give a course of safety instruction to all high school seniors which Mr. Rentz declared, meets with his hearty approval. This plan would go a long ways in the elimination of accidents.

Michael O'Grady, of Canton, O., superintendent of safety for the Pennsylvania railroad, was the next speaker of the evening and talked on "Industrial Safety." Mr. O'Grady gave some valuable advice to foremen on the handling of men and how to obtain their cooperation in all safety moves. He stressed the importance of all to point out the flaws in equipment to the superiors so that the situation can be rectified. The value of stressing the use of iron shoes, and glasses whenever necessary, was also pointed out by the speaker.

The program came to a close with the showing of moving pictures that covered both subjects. The pictures were donated for the occasion by Eugene H. Swartz, local automobile dealer.

Tumble In World Silver Markets Causes Unsettled Condition

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The stock market was unsettled today by a tumble in world silver markets. U. S. Smelting was down over six points at one time and Cerro De Pasco around three points. Support appeared and the losses were whittled down.

Gold stocks advanced as the silvers gave ground and Homestake Mining added 19 points to yesterday's 30-point jump, hitting a new record high.

Coppers were weak with the silvers and pressure was apparent in various sections of the list as the motors, steels and rails. Carrier shares, however, showed buying demand on recessions and losses were limited.

Aviations, amusements and foods were firm and low-priced oils were in demand.

Motor products rose to a new high but lost most of its gain later.

Trading was heavy. Opening blocks involved 10,000 Warner Bros. and 8,000 Packard.

U. S. Steel was down nearly a point but Bethlehem showed better support. Chrysler and General Motors were under pressure. N. Y. Central was involved in large dealings at lower prices.

Commodities were depressed by the silver break. Bonds were irregular. Foreign currencies firmed up.

Miss Edith M. Barber

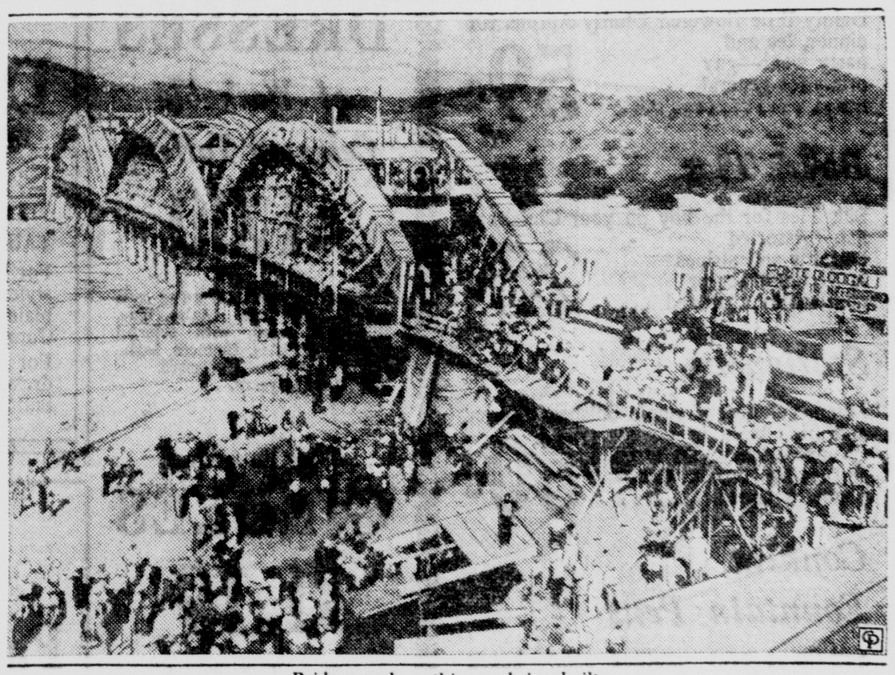

What are dietitians? Miss Edith M. Barber of New York explains that they plan diets for the sick in hospitals; often plan meals, buy the food and supervise its preparation for the hospital staff, advise on problems of diet in social work, and direct home economics departments of food manufacturing companies. Dietitians also write about food for magazines and newspapers. Miss Barber writes a food column for a New York daily paper, and has written books and magazine articles on the subject.
